REVOLUTION FLAMES IN HONDURAS

D. A. R. SESSION TO BE GREETED BY MRS. HOOVER

First Lady to Appear at Congress' Opening at 10 A. M. Today.

CONSTITUTION HALL SCENE OF GATHERING

Address of Mrs. L. F. Hobart, President General, to Be Feature.

After passing the week-end at Rapidan with President Hoover and a party of friends, Mrs. Herbert Hoover will appear at the opening session of the Fortieth Continental Congress of the D. A. R. today at 10 a. m. in Constitution Hall in time to see the impressive processional of 200 pages representing all the States and carrying their banners, which will mark the opening of the congress. It is expected that Mrs. Hoover will give a few words of greeting.

The welcome by Mrs. Hoover and the annual address of the president general, Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, of Cincinnati, will be the high points of the morning session today. Judging from the progress made in registration, which continued all day yesterday, several thousand delegates will greet the First Lady of the Land and the first lady of the D. A. R. Throughout today other delegations will arrive and it is expected that the peak of attendance will be reached by Wednesday.

Mrs. Hobart's annual address will sound the keynote of the congress and will be devoted largely to discussion of patriotic problems and the progress of the patriotic work of the D. A. R. during the past year. Whether it will touch on the much-discussed question of prohibition could not be learned last night, but the policy of the society is to avoid political discussion of all kinds, so there is little possibility that this matter will be taken up officially, although it may break out in some discussion.

Resolutions on Longworth.

Regret at the recent passing of Speaker Longworth no doubt will be voiced in appropriate resolutions offered, it is thought, by members of the Ohio delegation. The late Speaker was a consistent friend of the D. A. R. throughout his official career and often spoke before its meetings.

Animated electioneering for the ten candidates announced for the seven vacancies among the vice presidents general was noted in the hotel lobbies of the city last night. The D. A. R.'s are past masters of the art of politics, and their ability to swap the support of delegations in return for like favors on behalf of their own candidates is well known.

Prominent among the delegates last night was Mrs. Eleanor Washington Howard, the last person living who was born at Mount Vernon, much revered by her associates not only for her distinguished ancestry, but for her constructive, patriotic work.

C. A. R. Also to Meet.

Mrs. Howard and many of the other D. A. R. delegates are in-er-

Girl Captive Escapes, Causes Trio's Arrest

New York Coed Kidnaped Last Thursday by Former Husband and Two Aids Drops Notes on Trip Halted in Wisconsin.

Madison, Wis., April 19 (U.P.).—Miss Helen Fisher, New York University coed, who was kidnaped last Thursday night, obtained her release from three captors here today after a melodramatic ruse which ended an automobile dash half-way across the country.

Sheriff Fred Finn arrested Harry H. Brill, 20, a former Minnesota University student; Howard Caldwell, a St. Paul sign painter, and Elmer Peterson, a St. Paul pressman, and held them without charges for New York authorities.

Miss Fisher, a pretty 20-year-old girl, formerly of St. Paul, Minn., was on the verge of collapse, hysterical and physically weakened, but managed to tell the sheriff how Brill, whose marriage to her was annulled last year, engineered the kidnaping after she had obtained an injunction to keep him from annoying her.

She said she went to New York and was attending classes there in the City College. When she was returning to her room Thursday night Hoffnagel, she said, threw a coat over her head, dragged her into a waiting automobile and sped 15 miles out of the city, whereupon she was transferred to Peterson's car.

Brill, Caldwell and Peterson then started on a race westward, she continued, keeping her by force from crying out for help. In Buffalo, N. Y., and in a town in Ohio, she said, she managed to scribble notes for help during brief stops for food.

During another such stop early today at La Porte, Ind., she wrote a third note which she left in a rest room. It read:

"Have been diknaped. Please inform —— at Port Richmond, N. Y. Our next stop Park Hotel, Madison. My clothes sent there. Helen Fisher."

Sheriff Tom McDonald, of La Porte,

BODY OF NUDE GIRL IS FOUND AT ROPE'S END

San Diego Store Clerk Is Stripped and Hanged From Tree Limb.

EVIDENCE DISCOUNTS SUICIDE POSSIBILITY

Clothing Piled Nearby; Death Due to Strangulation; Slaying Mystery.

San Diego, Calif., April 19 (A.P.).—The nude body of a girl found hanging from a tree at the foot of Black Mountain, near here, today, evidently the victim of a slayer, tonight tentatively was identified as that of Louise Teuber, San Diego, described as a clerk in a 5 and 10 cent store.

Late last night Fred Chase, 12, of National City, reported to police he had seen a girl bound and gagged in the rear seat of a sedan. His report sent police and deputy sheriffs scurrying through the district, but no trace of the car was found.

The body was suspended from the limb of a tre several feet above the ground, and the end of the rope had been tied to a stump about 15 feet away from the tree.

Suicide Held Improbable.

Possibility of suicide seemed dissipate when it was discovered the limb of the tree over which the rope had been thrown showed marks of the ropes having been pulled across it for some distance. The feet were touching the ground.

The victim was about 22 years old, with dark brown eyes and dark brown hair. She was about five feet six inches tall and weighed 120 pounds.

Clothing found nearby was of good material. There was a fur-trimmed coat, a light dress, a smock such as worn by clerks, and new lingerie.

An army blanket and a package containing a brassiere and a pair of hose was found in a gulley a short distance from the body. The brassiere and hose had been purchased yesterday from a store in San Diego.

Autopsy Is Ordered.

An autopsy was ordered to determine if the girl had been assaulted.

Patrolman Elmer H. Macy said the knot in the rope at the girl's neck was a double half hitch, evidently tied by some one familiar with intricate rope knots.

Only two slight wounds were on the body. A swollen tongue, officers said, indicated death resulted from strangulation. The victim had been dead at least twelve hours before the body was found.

SPEEDING TO SCENE OF HONDURAN REVOLT

New Outbreak Forces Change in Guard in Nicaragua.

SHIPS MAY EVACUATE AMERICAN CITIZENS

Navy Will Not Extend Operations Beyond Coast Towns.

STRICT NEUTRALITY POLICY IS ORDERED

Ferrera, Rebel Leader, Makes Unemployment Issue in Drive.

(Associated Press.)

Three of the Navy's swiftest cruisers were speeding last night to protect American citizens on the north coast of Honduras, where revolution has broken out against the Liberal regime of President Mejia Colindres.

The State and Navy Departments, anxiously engaged for the past week with the situation in eastern Nicaragua, found that vexing problem superseded.

Minister Julius G. Lay at Tegucigalpa, Honduras, reported a revolutionary outbreak late Saturday near a half a dozen north coast ports where American fruit companies have large interests and scores of American citizens live. Secretary Stimson conferred with Admiral Frost, Chief of Naval operations, and the Navy took action.

The light cruiser Memphis steamed out of Puerto Cabezas, principal Nicaraguan insurgent trouble center, where she had been standing by, with orders to proceed to Ceiba, largest port on the north Honduras coast, visiting Puerto Castilla on the way.

Memphis Is Due Today.

If not delayed at Puerto Castilla, a seaport of 4,000 population, built by the United Fruit Co., an American concern, the Memphis is due at Ceiba at 8 a. m. today.

The cruisers Trenton and Marblehead were ordered from Guantanamo, Cuba, base of the United States scouting force, to Trujillo and Puerto Cortez, respectively. Close behind them went the aircraft carrier Langley, carrying about 30 planes, with orders to take station at Puerto Cabezas, replacing the Memphis.

Puerto Cortez is the westernmost of the menaced points in Honduras. Trujillo is across a small bay from Puerto Castilla, to the east. American women and children in the Trujillo district have been concentrated at Puerto Castilla.

The immediate revolutionary threat appeared to be directed at Tela, 55 miles west of Ceiba, where a steamer of the United Fruit Co. was held in port to evacuate Americans if necessary. T. Monroe Fisher, American vice consul, telegraphed it was reported a force of 800 insurgents under Gen. Ramon Diaz, having captured Progreso, were advancing on Tela where civil guards had been mobilized to maintain order. The Memphis had orders to establish telephone contact with Tela.

Operations Are Restricted.

The American cruiser commanders' orders conformed to the protective policy enunciated last week by Secretary Stimson to apply to Nicaragua. They were to limit their operations to assuring the safety of American lives and property in the coast towns to which they were dispatched. They were ordered not to send forces inland.

At the State Department it was emphasized that the situation confronting American authorities in Honduras—one of genuine political revolution—was entirely different than in Nicaragua, where outlaw forays, which Secretary Stimson has called a "campaign of murder and assassination" called for protective measures.

In Honduras, American forces and the American Government, it was

TENNESSEE HERO'S STATUE UNVEILED

John Sevier's Descendants Form Half of Crowd at Ceremony.

Arms crossed, one hand grasping a sword, the other a scroll, head proudly raised, the statue of John Sevier, the first governor of Tennessee and a hero of the Revolutionary War and Indian fighting, was unveiled yesterday afternoon in Statuary Hall before a gathering of 1,000 persons, half of whom were descended from the honored man.

The statue was unveiled by Embree Hoss Headman and Fenton Allen Gentry, descendants of the Tennessee hero. The memorial was presented by Judge John H. DeWitt, of the Court of Appeals of the State of Tennessee and president of the Tennessee Historical Society.

The address of acceptance was made by F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War. This was followed by the playing of the Star Spangled Banner by the Marine Band. Greetings were extended by Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, national president of the Daughters of the American Revolution. A tribute to Gov. Sevier was voiced by Mrs. Flora Myers Gillentine, historian general of the D. A. R.

Presentation of the regents of the John Sevier Chapter of the D. A. R. was made by Mrs. R. S. Boyd. Mrs. Samuel Arnell presented the Bonny Kate Chapter, named after the wife of Gov. Sevier. Belle Kinney and L. F. Scholtz, sculptors of the statue, were presented at the conclusion of the unveiling exercises.

Mrs. Joseph Hayes Acklen, State regent of the Tennessee D. A. R., presided. The Rev. James I. Vance, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, of Nashville, Tenn., offered prayer at the conclusion of the services. Dr. Vance is a descendant of Capt. Robert Sevier, who was killed at the battle of Kings Mountain.

"May the chance to live dangerously never lose its charms for Tennesseeans," he said. "May the stern note of duty never find our hearts hesitant nor our souls slow to respond, and as we face the tasks of today and the problems of tomorrow may these

LABOR PLANNING DRY MODIFICATION DRIVE

Delegates From All Parts of U. S. to Meet Soon in Philadelphia.

(Associated Press.)

Organized labor yesterday announced plans for initiating a Nation-wide campaign for "a return of temperance and sanity" through modification of the Volstead act.

Announcement was made by labor's national committee for modification, set up by the American Federation of Labor, that a meeting would be held in Philadelphia April 27 and 28 by approximately 200 elected delegates from all parts of the country.

Mathew Woll, president of the committee and a vice president of the American Federation of Labor, said a network of local organizations reaching into every American community will be formed immediately after the conference.

Meantime, the Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance hit out again at the Quebec liquor control system. An article in its weekly clip sheet said the board had reached the "staggering conclusion that apart from its consumption of beers, Quebec has, through its liquor commission sales, increased its consumption of absolute alcohol over 64 per cent in six years."

While these statements were being issued here, Prohibition Director Woodcock was en route to Denver for an inspection of conditions in eight of the Northwestern States and Hawaii.

A hint that he would like to retire from his post, seen in a statement immediately before his departure that an appointment to a Federal judgeship would be "welcome," had no further developments yesterday. Mr. Woodcock said he was not campaigning for the post.

The announcement from the labor committee of its plan of campaign for a return of beer and wine said it intended to "use all honorable means" to secure this end.

"Ranking officers of most of the national and international unions will attend the conference," the statement said. "The gathering will be in fact a national labor convention, it will be thoroughly representative and it will carry back into

Roanoke to Greet Commerce Chiefs

Roanoke, Va., April 19 (A.P.).—Approximately 200 of the leading chamber of commerce executives of the South will gather here next Friday and Saturday for the twenty-fourth annual convention of the Commercial Secretaries Association.

The group will be entertained by the Roanoke Chamber of Commerce and the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce. Upon adjournment the delegates will travel in a motorcade to Lynchburg, through the James River watergap to Natural Bridge, and through the length of the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia and on to Washington.

Grief Fatal to Widow At Husband's Funeral

The stress of her grief yesterday brought death to Blanche Brown, colored, 59 years old, of 125 L street northwest. Relatives and friends gathered at the Union Wesley Church to pay their respects at the funeral of the woman's husband.

The service began. Suddenly, silently, the woman collapsed. Friends placed her in an automobile and hurried her to Emergency Hospital. The doctor told them they were too late.

PARIS, UNEASY, ASKS ALFONSO TO DEPART

Better Protection May Be Obtained in Smaller City, Police Say.

Paris, April 19 (A.P.).—Desiring to avoid possible complications, French police are understood to have invited the Duke of Toledo, formerly Alfonso XIII of Spain, to retire with his suite from Paris if he intends to remain in France.

It was pointed out that France can not prevent fanatics from crossing the frontier and attacking the royal visitors. It is hinted the cabinet discussed the problem of the exiled king's safety last night and a police official later visited the Duke of Miranda, Alfonso's chamberlain.

The former monarch was unofficially reported to be planning to seek refuge at a Fontainebleau hotel tomorrow or Tuesday. The police attitude is that he could be better protected against a possible attack in some smaller locality. The manager of Hotel Meurice, where the king is staying here, conferred last night with representatives of the Hotel Angleterre at Fontainbleau.

Alfonso's visit to a Fontainbleau chateau yesterday was understood to have ben a blind for his inspection of the hotel, which is one of the most expensive of French provincial hostels.

Left newspapers are seizing on Paris' warm welcome of the king as a ground for criticizing the government. They say that while it was all right to give him a royal reception, it must be remembered that Alfonso is not a "stanch supporter of liberty." They cite political executions in Spain and also say he refused to heed thousands of requests from the entire world that he pardon Francisco Ferrer, who was executed in Barcelona in 1909.

The press "dropped" the Duke of Toledo today, some newspapers not

Wilson Line Ships Destroyed by Fire

Boat City of Washington Is One of Two Burned in Wilmington.

Wilmington, Del., April 19 (A.P.).—Two steamships were destroyed and another ship and a barge were damaged late today in a fire at the foot of Fourth street, on the Christiana River.

The passenger steamer City of Washington, of the Wilson Line, and the small freighter West River, were burned to the water line. The State of Delaware, a sister ship of the City of Washington, was damaged. The damaged barge was laden with skins consigned to a local morocco plant. Unofficial estimates of the total damage varied from $200,000 to $400,000. The City of Washington and the State of Delaware play between Wilmington and Philadelphia.

John Smith, of Beverly, N. J., a member of the crew of the West River and the only person at the scene when the fire started, expressed belief the fire had been caused by an explosion in the acid cargo of the West River.

Newark, N. J., April 19 (U.P.)—Harry Taylor, pilot for the Pittsburgh Airways Co., claimed a speed record between Philadelphia and Newark for a passenger plane today when he made the flight with five passengers in 23 minutes, averaging 190.2 miles an hour. The previous record was 35 minutes.

TWO YOUTHS KILLED IN TRAFFIC CRASHES

Stepson of Chief of Police in North Beach Is Victim; Other Accidents.

Traffic accidents yesterday in Washington and nearby Maryland claimed two lives. One was a hit-and-run accident.

Charles Oliver Miller, 21 years old, a soldier attached to Bolling Field, was fatally injured on the Marlboro Pike near T. B., Md., when his automobile overturned after colliding with another machine. The second car did not stop.

Miller was driving the automobile, in which Russell A. Boggs, also a Bolling Field soldier, and two young women were riding. Near T. B., they attempted to pass another machine and were sideswiped by an automobile going north. Miller was placed in a passing automobile and taken to Casualty Hospital. He was pronounced dead upon his arrival.

Chadbourne B. Woodsome, 19 years old, stepson of Chief of Police Henry C. Haddaway, of North Beach, Md., was fatally injured yesterday when he lost control of a motorcycle that plunged into a tree near Blair road and Van Buren street northwest.

The youth, who lives at 1327 Fairmont street northwest, was riding north on Blair road to keep a dinner engagement at the home of a friend when the rear tire blew out. He lost control of the machine and it mounted a slight embankment and catapulted him into a tree.

He was placed in an automobile driven by Francis Williams, of 5322 Ninth street northwest and taken to Walter Reed Hospital where he was pronounced dead by Maj. William R. L. Rinehart. Death was caused by

HONDURAN REBELS INVADE PROGRESO

American Life and Property Will Not Be Menaced, Leader Assures.

New Orleans, April 19 (A.P.).—The northern coast of Spanish Honduras was reported in the throes of a revolution with fighting between Honduran government and revolutionary forces at Progreso, in dispatches received tonight by the Standard Fruit & Steamship Co., which has extensive holdings in the area.

No information had been received of the outcome of the battle, but both revolutionists and the government were reported hurriedly assembling their forces.

The revolutionists, who started last night with a small detachment, were reported gaining recruits along the way from native laborers and farmers, armed with rifles, pistols, machetes and other weapons.

The dispatches said authorities regarded the revolution as serious as that of 1924, when the Honduras government was overthrown.

The Standard Co.'s report said the revolution was led by Gen. Gregorio Ferrera, described as the strongest military figure in the country.

The aim of the revolutionists was said to be the capture of four of the principal ports of the country, La Ceiba, Tela, Trujillo and Puerto Cortez.

A detachment of 800 revolutionists in command of Gen. Lopez Guitterrez was reported at Progreso and headed for Trujillo. Guitterrez was described as another experienced revolutionist who participated in the 1924 uprising.

Gen. Ferrera was reported to have announced that his followers would not disturb foreigners or foreign property and that he had a friendly attitude toward America. No reports have been received of injury to foreigners or damage to foreign property.

Persons familiar with Honduras said if the revolutionists were successful in capturing the northern coast they would have virtual possession of the country, as they would control the financial centers, customs and the principal ports of entry. They would be in a strategic position, they said, to march on Tegucigalpa, the capital, and also would control nearly the entire railroad mileage in the country.

President Mejia was reported to have sent out detachments to reconnoiter the revolutionists' position. The government's armed forces were estimated at 5,000, but were reported to be handicaped by lack of funds.

Highway Bridge Jam Delays Hoover's Return to Capital

President and Party, on Way Back From Week-End at Rapidan Camp, Caught in Traffic Snarl; Wife and Son More Fortunate.

President Hoover, who has always manifested interest in traffic problems, had personal experience yesterday in a slight jam on the Highway Bridge, while he was returning from a week-end at his Rapidan fishing camp.

As the Presidential fishing party approached Washington by way of Columbia pike, they took the Alexandria road. The party ran into a jam and the caravan of cars turned back and came down military road, in the hope that the jam would be avoided.

The party ran flush into a jam on the bridge, and the machines moved only a few feet every few minutes. The final obstacle to the party was an aged colored man in an automobile which stalled on the bridge.

Secret Service men pushed the machine out of the way and the colored man then discovered that the automobile was out of gas. The first jam was on the Alexandria road, and when the cars did not move the party of cars was routed to Military road.

Secret Service men hastened traffic across the bridge. In all, about 15 or 20 minutes were required for the presidential group to cross the bridge. Apart from the traffic jam the trip was uneventful, a little

Six Farmers, Soviet Foes, Are Doomed for Sabotage

Nine Other Rich Peasants Sentenced to Prison for Opposition to Collectivization of Agriculture; Attacks With Axes on Officials Reported.

Moscow, April 19 (U.P.).—Six kulaks, or wealthy farmers, were sentenced to death today and nine others were given prison terms on charges of sabotage in connection with the government's movement to collectivize all farms throughout the Soviet Union.

The charges included allegations that the defendants refused to sell their grain to the government; that they forged documents certifying that they were poor peasants, and that they spread anti-Soviet propaganda and terrorized the poorer peasants in their district. The kulaks were from the village of Tormasovo.

The farm collectivization campaign increased 10 per cent in efficiency during the five-day trial, the government reported. The plan is to place all farms under central government control, with the peasants living together in communities and eating in a community mess hall, going out each day to work on the land as factory workers go to factories.

A report said that kulaks with axes attacked three Soviet officials near Moscow yesterday. Their resentment against the government's campaign to force them to give up their farms has broken out more frequently this spring, as the drive proceeds. Attacks on peasants who conform to the Soviet ruling have been reported.

The farm campaign is but part of a more intense drive being instituted in all branches of the Soviet-controlled industries.

An order was issued today, for example, that every factory worker in the future must pay out of his own pocket losses in the factory due to inefficiency. The new system of individual accounting was begun in Leningrad, and is spreading to other factories.

It is aimed to give incentive to slackers and bunglers, who, unwittingly, are declared guilty of sabotage against the five-year plan of industrialization. The workers are kept at the same machine in order that they may become efficient and in order that the Soviet leaders may check up on their work and assess them if they find them inefficient.

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States Appears on Page 3 Today.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

The 19th of April has been known in this country since the year 1775 as Patriots' Day. On that date British soldiers, sent out from Boston through Lexington to Concord to capture military stores of the colonists, met armed resistance and were driven back with heavy losses. That day meant that the patriots would defend their rights with their lives.

Other contemporaneous events in the colonies were of equal significance if not of equal importance, but no other had the dramatic quality which made it in song and story so much a national epic. The guns and drums of a local action not only aroused a whole country but stimulated in the soul of mankind a longing for self-government.

On the day on which this anniversary is observed it is worth while to stop and ponder what self-government means. Lawlessness does not meet its high requirements. It means that when the duly constituted authority of the people has spoken, duty requires the citizen to observe and public officers to enforce the law. The result is order, certainty and confidence. If only we could abide by so simple and obvious a truth Patriots' Day would be fittingly celebrated.

stated, will maintain a strict neutrality.

American officials reported the Honduran revolutionaries apparently were under the banner of Gen. Gregorio Ferrera, a former minister of war, who led an unsuccessful revolution in 1924.

For the past two years Ferrera has been living the life of a peaceful rancher at San Pedro.

Rebel Forces Plan Union.

Unofficial advices reaching Washington last night said Gen. Diaz, at Progreso, having commandeered a train on the Tela Railway, had moved on to Uraco, 20 miles from Progreso, where he was to meet Ferrera. These advices said Diaz' 800 men were armed with rifles and dynamite.

The same advices said early yesterday another revolutionary movement broke out in the Black River district, where rebels had commandeered an engine on the Trujillo Railroad. Heavy fighting was reported on the Aguan River, in the Ceiba area.

In addition to the steamer held at Tela, the United Fruit Co. has ordered other vessels to Puerto Cortez and Puerto Castilla to evacuate American women and children if necessary.

President Mejia took office February 1, 192, for a four-year term. Recently his Liberal cabinet resigned owing to denunciations of its economic policies. In the legislature his Liberal strength has been deadlocked with that of the Nacionalista party.

Ferrar is not definitely aligned with either party. He appears to have taken advantage of economic unrest along the northern coast.

Unemployment Causes Discontent.

Before the outbreak American consuls at Ceiba and Puerto Castilla reported persistent rumors of risings in their districts, where unemployment was causing bitter discontent, which they said might easily turn into rioting and bloodhsed.

Although major interest was diverted to the revolution, the government did not rela x its vigil along the east coast of Nicaragua, where a week ago eight American civilians and one Marine captain were slain by Sandinista outlaws. Seven were shot in cold blood.

At the same time the Memphis was ordered away from Puerto Cabezas the Navy instructed the gunboat Asheville, standing guard at Cape Gracias a Dios, 60 miles to the north, to move to Puerto Cabezas.

Before weighing anchor, however, the Memphis put ashore one officer and thirteen bluejackets, with machine guns, to protect Americans there until the Asheville could arrive. The Langley, with her planes, will provide early reinforcement in this area.

Marines Land at Bluefield.

At Bluefields, the southern Nicaraguan port behind which outlaw bands have been reported active, the cruiser Rochester, flagship of the special service squadron in Central American waters, arrived yesterday from the Canal Zone. The gunboat Sacramento, already there, had thrown ashore a Marine detachment —one officer and 30 men—to insure the safety of the port. This precaution was taken because reports of outlaw operations inland had drawn off most of the Guardia from the port, leaving only three officers and thirteen men in Bluefields. The Rochester and the Secramento will remain at Bluefields.

Latest reports from the American warships' commanders indicated all was quiet in Puerto Cabezas, Cape Gracias a Dios and Bluefields.

Since early in the sixteenth century, Honduras has been an almost continual sufferer from revolutions and the victim of political intrigue.

Sent Warning in 1924.

In the central portion of Central America, this little republic was torn by tri-partite revolutions as late as 1923 and 192.. These struggles brought naval cruisers, Marines and Bluejackets to protect United States interests and a warning from Charles Evans Hughes, then Secretary of State, that this country disfavored any attempt of a government to perpetuate itself except by constitutional process.

Revolutionary turmoil reached an intense pitch in February, 1924, by the inability of three political factions to agree upon the manner of restoring constitutional government and the United States severed diplomatic relations.

Through the conflicts, however, strict orders were maintained that any United States' intervention be solely on behalf of her interests and not in favor of any warring group.

Although cause of the present revolution was not stated, Honduras since its discovery by Columbus, who claimed it for Spain in 1502, has seethed with political unrest.

Unusual Recognition Accorded.

Development of Banan lands and the increased economic importance of the countrry has brought in recent years unusual recognition by the United States Government. In 1926-1927, this country took $13,485,731 of Honduras' $17,546,290 exports.

In April, 1924, the United States sent a personal representative of President Coolidge to mediate with revolutionary forces. Various conferences were held, difficulties were smoothed out and a new president, Dr. Miguel Paz Barona, took office the next year.

During his term a boundary dispute arose with Guatemala and discussions were held under the chairmanship of the American Minister to Costa Rica. When no results were obtained the United States Secretary of State assumed the role of mediator and brought about a submission of the question to a central tribunal under a treaty of 1923.

Honduras produces tropical hardwoods, pitch-pine, dyewoods, bananas, coffee and cattle. Her chief export item is bananas, having shipped 17,090,182 bunches, valued at $13,580,937, in 1926.

a fractured skull and internal injuries, the report said.

The youth is survived by his mother, Mrs. Minnie C. Haddaway, a stepsister, Alice Haddaway, a brother, Curtis Woodsome, and his grandmother, Mrs. Alice B. Curtis, all of this city. Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt issued a certificate of accidental death.

A possible fracture of the nose was suffered yesterday by Hazel Hull, 7 years old, when the automobile in which she was riding collided with another machine at Fifteenth street and South Carolina avenue southeast.

She was treated by a private physician and her injuries were found to be slight. Other occupants of the machines escaped injury.

Struck by a hit and run driver, Rudolph S. McCondia, 23 years old, of Otis street near Eighth street northwest, suffered bruises and lacerations yesterday.

The accident happened at Third street and Rhode Island avenue northeast. Mr. McCondia was taken to a private physician for treatment. His injuries were found to be slight.

James Kelliher, 65 years of age, suffered injuries to his left arm and shock yesterday when he was struck down by an automobile at Tenth and F streets northwest. He was taken to Emergency Hospital for treatment.

According to police reports, Mr. Kelliher was attempting to cross the intersection against a red light when he was struck by a machine operated by Calvin L. Groh, of Meyerstown, Pa. No charges were placed against Groh.

Alice Pinkett, 40 years old, colored, of 908 Twenty-seventh street northwest, had both arms broken last night when a truck in which she was riding overturned at Wisconsin and Massachusetts avenue. She was taken to Georgetown Hospital. Leon Hughes, 25 years old, colored, of South street near Thirty-first street northwest, was charged with reckless driving.

Three Claim Share In Wendel Fortune

East Baltimore Woman and Two Brothers Plan to Contest Will.

Baltimore, April 19 (A.P.).—More Baltimore claimants to a share in the $150,000,000 estate of Miss Ella V. Wendel, 80-year-old New Yrok spinstre recluse, appeared today. Papers conteating the will, it became known, have been filed in New York for Miss Elizabeth A. Deise, of East Baltimore, and her two half-brothres.

The legal action was taken through her New York attorney, she said, after an investigation of familiy genealogy had disclosed that her grandmother had been a niece of John Gottlieb Wendel, the grandfather of Miss Ella Wendel. The will, recently filed, left the bulk of the woman's estate to charity.

Two other Baltimoreans have asserted claims to the fortune. They are August Soop, handy man at a theater, and his sister, Miss Jennie Soop. A claim also has been entered by the legal representatives of a youth in Frederick.

Soviet Varies Wage Policy, Orders Piece-Work System

Pay Will Not Be Based on Communistic Theory of Equal Division, But on Capitalistic Idea of Rewarding Individual's Skill.

Moscow, April 19 (A.P.).—A new wage system, known as the "Khosraschiot," which apparently changes the Soviet government's policy and amplifies the inauguration of piece work, will be introduced May 1. The wages of workers will not be based on the communistic theory of equal division, but on the capitalistic idea of rewarding individual efforts on skill and ability.

The word Khosraschiot literally means "economic accounting." It is interpreted in the government decree to mean that each factory, plant, collective farm, mine, railroad and such henceforth must take the responsibility of fulfilling contracts and adjudging wages without interference from trade unions.

Although certain elements view the innovation regretfully as a compromise with capitalism, the government hopes the system will speed up production. Leaders see the Khosraschiot as tending to eliminate waste and fix responsibility for managers and workers.

It is explained, as an example, that the Stalingrad tractor plant, which is in a most chaotic condition as to production, must contract with the state collective farms for the sale of so many tractors at an agreed price. The government or bank advances money to the farms for these purchases, and in return receives a proportion of the crops. Negotiations will be between the farms and the plant without government intervention and each will be expected to carry out its contract.

Thus, if the factory production continues to slump, wages will be reduced accordingly, but if the output increases, wages and bonuses will be raised proportionately. Under the new system it is understood that piece work will be introduced throughout. If the farm or factory fails to carry out its contract, court suits may be brought and the losers subjected to heavy penalties for damages. Superintendents would be demoted and various privileges of workers would be curtailed.

In the Khosraschiot system the state bank, or financial department, will play an important part. Heretofore the bank issued credit to industrial bodies on a basis of their material and financial plans. Under the recent ruling this system entirely changes the basis for fiancing factories. They are placed on agreements or contracts between them and their customers. In this way advancing of credits is made directly dependent on execution of concrete business transactions.

Wages of coal miners and railroad workers generally are increased on an average of about 6 per cent, dependent upon the quality of work done.

It is admitted that the new scheme involves an increase in accounting and bookkeeping, which already is a voluminous task.

TENNESSEE HERO'S STATUE IS UNVEILED

bronze and marble shades of our immortal dead keep us high minded and unafraid."

Persistent resistance by Gov. Sevier to the invasions of Indians resulted in opening the way to settlement and development of the Southwest. A regiment under his command was foremost in the charge against the British and Tories at the battle of Kings Mountain—the turning point in the Revolutionary War. After the enemy was repelled, Gov. Sevier encountered an outbreak of Cherokees on his way home, and again distinguished himself with a victory over the redskins.

This event was but an incident in the hard riding life of the Tennesseean. Of books, it is said, he knew little, but of men, human nature and fighting a great deal. He was governor of Tennessee for six terms. In 1802, he served as a commissioner to run the boundary line between Virginia and Tennessee. In 1809, he served as a State senator from Knox County, Tenn. From 1811, until his death, he was a member of the United States Congress. He was a faithful adherent to the Madison administration during the second war with Great Britain.

11 Nations Recognize New Spanish Republic

Madrid, April 19 (A.P.).—After a tempestuous week which saw the ancient Spanish monarchy swept aside and a republic established, the new government today took inventory of its accomplishments during its brief existence and counted eleven nations which have given it recognition.

The country was reported peaceful today, in contrast with the excitement of last Sunday's epochal elections. All universities will be reopened in Spain tomorrow after having been closed for some time because of disturbances among students who favored establishment of the republic.

The countries which have recognized the new republic, according to the announcement here, are France, Mexico, Portugal, Uruguay, Cuba, Chile, Argentina, Turkey, Czechoslovakia, Greece and Jugoslavia. The provisional government expressed satisfaction at this favorable reception of its regime and feels confident the United States and other powers will soon take similar action.

Italy and the Vatican state may delay recognition, but Provisional President Niceto Alcala Zamora has made it clear he desires no friction with the Catholic Church and will try to give the Vatican no reason for withholding recognition. Many Republicans, however, are insisting upon separation of the church and the state. This will be decided at the forthcoming Republican assembly after general elections are held.

High churchmen are known to be privately quite disturbed over the establishment of the republic and the possibility of its developing policies unfavorable to the Catholic Church. However, they are not making public declarations to that effect and the government continues to indicate its attitude will not be enmity to any creed or church, but liberty and freedom for all religions.

Spanish women have decided to demand equal rights under the new Republican regime, first seeking equal voting privileges with the men. The new assembly will decide on the question of votes for women and other measures for emancipation of the feminine population.

who refused to divulge the name mentioned in the note, telephoned Sheriff Finn here. The latter had his men waiting at the Park Hotel when Peterson, Brill, Caldwell and Miss Fisher drove up late this afternoon.

The sheriff hustled the three men to jail and obtained medical attention for Miss Fisher, who then sobbed out her story.

She said that she married Brill two years ago, but that their parents forced annulment of the marriage because of their youth. He thereupon threatened to commit suicide unless she remarried him and once did shoot himself, she said.

Miss Fisher said she had inherited an estate of $50,000 at Power, Minn., meanwhile and had gone to New oYrk to study when Hoffnagel bundled her into the car and her impetuous former husband rushed her back toward their old home in St. Paul.

On Knowing Your Victuals

ALTHOUGH we've been in the food business for nearly three-quarters of a century, we've never seen so many people worked up over victuals as they are right now.

Truly, it seems as if every newspaper, magazine, and radio station in the country is being conducted for the sole purpose of teaching the American woman how to buy wisely, cook wisely, and eat wisely.. Bureaus and Committees by the hundred vie with one another to show housewives how to get their money's worth from the grocer and the butcher.

All of which is highly satisfactory, so far as we are concerned. The more women know about food, and the shrewder buyers they are, the more customers A&P will have.

For A&P is run for women who are keen judges of food; who know food values when they see them. A&P stores are for women who make a business of running their households well at low expense—and are proud of it.

APPLE GROWERS HIT BY BRITISH EMBARGO

Certain Grades Are Denied Entry Between July 1 and November 15.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., April 19.—Commercial apple growers of the United States are faced with the problem of a permanent English embargo on certain grades of apples from this country from July 1 to November 15, according to an official announcement received today to the effect that the order in council of 1930 had been made permanent by the British government.

No boxed apples below "fancy" or barreled fruit under "U. S. No. 1" will be permitted to enter British ports between those dates, according to the decision of the British ministry of agriculture, transmitted by Fred A. Motz, specialist in foreign marketing of the United States Department of Agriculture.

When the embargo order was announced last summer Congress had just passed the new tariff bill, and many growers claimed the order was a British reprisal. However, agents of British commission houses asserted the order was designed to keep off the British market only partly ripened and otherwise immature fruit.

It has been a practice for some years in the Shenandoah-Cumberland-Potomac apple district of Virginia and nearby States to ship barreled apples direct to England from packing sheds during September and early October, thus saving the expense of cold storage. Growers and shippers claimed such shipments were in response to a foreign demand, and that the fruit was sold on its merits.

Under terms of the British order, only "fancy" and "U. S. No. 1" grades or better may enter British markets up to November 15. As a result, such grades as "commercial" and "combination-commercial No. 1" can not be shipped until after the latter date. Meanwhile such fruit will have to be placed in cold storage. The principal objection to the "commercial" grades is that, although first class in size, they do not always meet color requirements of the "fancy" and "U. S. No. 1" grades.

Land Is Acquired For Military Park

Budget Committee Will Be Asked to Recommend Fund of $105,000.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., April 19.—All of the required property in the Fort Stedman area of the Petersburg National Military Park has been donated to the FFederal2 Government and it is now probable that an appropriation of $105,000 will be recommended by the congressional budget committee for 1933.

Maj. A. E. Wilburn, director of the Petersburg and Fredericksburg Military Parks, will go to Washington about May 1 to present all the data before the budget committee.

If Congress votes the fund roads in the area will be completed and markers and cannon placed in accordance with park plans. This area covers 114.62 acres of the 508.02 acres which must be acquired before the park will be taken over by the United States Government for permanent upkeep. In the Fort Stedman area are located Gracies Salient, Gracies Dam, Colquitt's Salient, Confederate strongholds, and Fort Stedman, Fort Haskell, FFort Morton, bateries 9, 11 and 13 of the Federal lines.

Baltimore Cleric Resigns to Teach

Rev. James A. Mitchell to Join Seminary Staff at Alexandria.

Baltimore, April 19 (A.P.).—The Rev. James A. Mitchell, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Messiah, today announced his resignation to accept the chair of applied Christianity at the Theological Seminary, Alexandria, Va. He will teach homiletics, liturgics and theology. He said he would leave the church here this summer and take up his new duties in September.

Mr. Mitchell has been at the Church of the Messiah six years, two years as associate rector and four years as rector. He was graduated from Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., and taught for three years at St. John's University, Shanghai, returning to enter the Army in the World War, serving with the Field Artillery.

His family originally came from southern Maryland and his great-grandfather and his father were rectors. He was born in Centerville, this State, in 1892 and is unmarried.

PARK ROAD ROUTES PROVE OF INTEREST

Interior Department Unit to Have Supervision of Affected Areas.

The recent creation of an Eastern National Park to Park Highway Association is a matter of deep interest to the National Park Service of the Department of the Interior, which will have supervision of the Eastern National Park areas as soon as they are definitely established.

The association is an outgrowth of a meeting called by Representative Maurice H. Thatcher, of Louisville, Ky., on April 4, in the House Office Building here. At this time Mr. Thatcher was elected chairman of the new organization and Vernon E. Kemp, of Charlottesville, Va., was made secretary.

At the conference the route of the Eastern Park to Park highway was adopted in principle, covering approximately 1,826 miles and connecting the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, the Colonial National Monument and the George Washington National Monument at Wakefield, with the proposed Shenandoah and Mammoth Cave National Parks. The highway will run through portions of Kentucky, Tenessee, North Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia.

Several routes of equal importance and dignity have been approved for the highway. The northern route leads from Washington through Fairfax, Warrenton, New Market, Staunton, Clifton Forge, Huntington and Lexington to Louisville, and thence south to the proposed Mammoth Cave National Park; thence down to the Tennessee portion of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, and then into North Carolina.

The route branches at Wytheville, one leading east through Lynchburg to Petersburg and thence north to Richmond. Here again two alternate routes are presented, one going north to Fredericksburg and the other going southeast to Williamsburg, Jamestown and Yorktown to the new Colonial National Monument and returning to Fredericksburg by way of Tappahannock, Warsaw and Oak Grove, so as to include the George Washington Birthplace National Monument at Wakefield and on to Fredericksburg. From here the route goes north to Washington through Alexandria by way of Mount Vernon and the Mount Vernon Memorial boulevard which is part of the George Washington Memorial Parkway.

BICENTENNIAL PLANS TOLD TO STUDENTS

1,500 Hear Bloom Explain Program Honoring First President.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509 Clarendon, Va.

With the Washington-Lee High School auditorium filled by a capacity audience of more than 1,500 persons, the National George Washington Bicentennial Commission yesterday afternoon launched the public school phase of preparation for the celebration next year.

The exercises opened with invocation by the Rev. Perry L. Mitchell, pastor of the Clarendon Baptist Church, followed by singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner," led by a chorus of more than 300 voices under direction of Miss Madeline Whitlock.

Representative Sol Bloom, associate director of the National George Washington Bicentennial Commission, the principal speaker, said:

"In launching this phase of the program, in which the school children of America will play a most important part, it is fitting that the Washington-Lee High School, the largest in the State and located here in Arlington County, should be chosen by the commission, as it is in a region closely associated with the life and activities of George Washington.

Students Are Congratulated.

"The student body of this school is to be congratulated as you are the first to present a program which is in keeping with the views of the National Commission.

"The very walls of this building stand on hallowed ground. George Washington worked as a surveyor in this neighborhood, when he was not much older than most of you.

"The celebration next year, which will be the anniversary of the 200th birthday of George Washington, will be the greatest 'birthday party' ever given. It will not be confined to a single day.

"For nine months, beginning with February 22 and lasting until Thanksgiving Day, the memory of Washington will be kept before the people of the country.

"On this very day, April 19, you students of Washington-Lee are giving the country an example of what will be done in 1932.

Other Nations Will Pay Tribute.

"This is Patriots' Day, the anniversary of the battles of Lexington and Concord, where the patriots met the British in the first clash of arms in the American Revolution.

"It was the battle that moved George Washington to draw the sword that brought the country to victory and independence.

"The Nation will not keep this commemoration of George Washington to itself. The nations of the world will be invited to join us in doing honor to one who was a liberator of all mankind.

"The George Washington Bicentennial Commission is arranging a program that will make the country alive with pageantry. The life and time of Washington will be relived before us, in plays, in pageant form, all faithful to history in every detail. Schools, churches, civic and patriotic bodies in every section of the country will be encouraged and aided in presenting these living pictures of Washington and the Revolutionary days."

In conclusion he said: "I take this opportunity to invite all the youth of America to enter this undertaking. We need your young enthusiasm to help the commission in making this celebration the deep and solemn occasion that it should be."

Washington Is Paid Honor.

State Senator Robert Norris, jr., personal representative of Gov. John Garland Pollard, who was unable to attend, paid a glowing tribute to the life of Washington.

"Next year we celebrate the 200th birthday of Washington and the Nation is now preparing a celebration which never has been and doubtless never will be equaled," he said.

"Follow the examples as laid down by Washington during his life and the future of this republic is assured," he said.

Dr. Sidney Hall, State superintendent of public instruction, presided.

A feature of the program was a pageant staged under direction of the national commission protraying the sceen at Woodstock, Va., when the late Rev. John Peter Muhlenberg, conducting patriotic services removed his vestments, revealing the uniform of a colonel in the Revolutionary Army. The leading role was taken by T. J. Jones, member of the faculty at Washington and Lee.

The program, broadcast by Station WJSV, was planned under the direction of Miss Emma Perley Lincoln, radio director for the national commission.

John D. McDevitt, 42 years old, of 106 Main street, Ballston, yesterday morning was pronounced dead of gas upon arrival of Dr. W. C. Welburn, and the rescue squad from Washington, who had been called by Mrs. McDevitt after she noticed the odor of gas coming from the man's room. A certificate of accidental death from inhaling illuminating gas was issued by the coroner, Dr. B. H. Swain.

Funeral services will be held from the home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. S. T. Nicholas. Burial will be in Columbia Gardens Cemetery, Arlington County.

Besides his widow, Mr. McDevitt is survived by a daughter, Mae McDevitt.

With Arlington County residents showing activity in carrying on a general clean-up campaign, indications are that there will be keen competition in the beautification contest being staged by the Arlington County Bicentennial Commission as a major part of its program.

The committee in charge of the contest, headed by Walter F. Sunderman, will meet soon to formulate the general program for the contest.

The condition of William Friess, of Clarendon, who underwent an operation at the Georgetown Hospital in Washington Saturday, was reported as much improved last night.

With special services conducted by the Rev. Cleland B. McAfee, secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, and former moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States, the new $20,000 Arlington Presbyterian Church was dedicated yesterday. The pastor, the Rev. Walter F. Wolfe, assisted in the services.

The new edifice replaces one destroyed by fire December 22, 1924. Since that time and until the erection of the new church, services were held in the Arlington Methodist Episcopal Church and later in a temporary chapel building.

FAIRFAX RURAL MAIL ROUTES ARE MERGED

Death of Carrier Enables Postoffice to Reduce Number to Two.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

An announcement from the Fairfax postoffice states that beginning May 1 the three rural mail routes from that office will be consolidated into two routes for eight months of the year. Carrier Frank Swart, of route 1, will add that portion of the present route 3 which is north of Fairfax along Chain Bridge road and Cedar avenue, making his daily route 32 miles long. Stacy S. Swart, carrier for rute 2, will serve the remainder of route 3, in addition to his regular route, traveling 42 miles daily.

The auxiliary route, the present route 2, will be provided from December 1 until April 30 by the Postoffice Department to care for the work during the winter months. This change is carrying out the program of the Postoffice Department for consolidation made possible throughout the country by the improvement of rural highways. The consolidation is not usually made until the death or retirement of a regular carrier presents the opportunity. The vacancy in the Fairfax office was caused by the death of W. T. Carter some months ago, who carried mail from the Fairfax office for 25 years. Rene D. Pfalzgraf has been acting as temporary carrier on route 3 since Mr. Carter's death.

President Edmund H. Allen, of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce, has called a special meeting of the board of directors of that body for tomorrow evening in the chamber's offices in the old clerk's building at Fairfax. Principal Gordon E. Smith, of the Franklin Sherman High School at McLean, announced at the meeting of the school's Parent-Teacher Association that he would not be able to return to the school as a teacher next year unless the community supplement his salary paid by the county school board, as he had received offers from other schools in Virginia which would pay him much more than he was receiving at McLean. The association voted to refer the question to the McLean School and Community League for consideration.

Mrs. W. P. Davis has been elected president of the Parent-Teacher Association to succeed Mrs. I. B. Faidley, who has held the office for the last two years. Mrs. Lemuel Crowder expressed the appreciation of the association for the large amount of constructive work accomplished under the leadership of Mrs. Faidley.

Other officers elected included Mrs. Bruno Wittig, vice president; Miss Jennie Tomko, secretary and Mrs. J. D. K. Smoot, treasurer. The newly elected president, Mrs. Davis, has called a meeting of the new officers and the last year's executive committee of the association for Thursday at the home of Mrs. Faidley, in McLean. Mrs. Davis will appoint the standing committees to function during the ensuing year at the meeting Thursday.

Fairfax County Forest Fire Warden Joseph Money, of Colvin Run, has issued a warning to the citizens of the county that he will swear out warrants against persons suspected of responsibility for starting field or forest fires. Warden Money states that he feels that some drastic action should be taken, in view of the serious forest fires during the past two weeks, to impress on the minds of the people their responsibility under the State law for carelessness in allowing fires to get beyond their control. He has already made several persons pay the costs of hiring fighters to put out these fires.

The Falls Church Evening Study Club will hold its meeting this evening at the home of Mrs. Katherine Lawrence in Cherrydale. Mrs. Harry Borgstadt will give a review of the book entitled "The Adams Family."

Gun play brought into a crap game in Queen City, Arlington County, yesterday afternoon resulted in McKinley Walker and Dallas Irving, both colored, being sent to Georgetown Hospital where they are said to be in a serious condition.

Two men, Wilbert Dockery and Henry Williams, have been arrested by the Fourth Precinct police in Washington in connection with the affair.

Sheriff Howard B. Fields has filed a complaint against the two, who will be turned over to county authorities today.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

CRISPLY and briefly, the customary manner of speaking in the Barrymore family, Lionel has this to say anent his return to acting:

"It's all a matter of using the best medium at hand to tell what you want to tell.

"If I were given a bucket of red paint and a brush and told to paint a picture of a cardinal in a red robe, I would not drop the bucket and the brush and call for materials for a dry point etching.

"There are times when one can create a better character by acting it—other times one can express an idea better in a story by directing it."

After devoting his talents to directing for two years, the elder Barrymore is puting on make-up again to play the lawyer-father role in "A Free Soul." Lionel was lured back to acting—at least for this picture—by the intense drama inherent in the character of the man who bares his own secret sins to safeguard his daughter's happiness. Norma Shearer is the daughter. That he does not intend to forsake directing permanently, however, is indicated by the fact that he still retains his director's office on the M-G-M lot, but has no dressing-room.

When Lionel Barrymore came into pictures years ago in "The Barrier," he made up his mind he wanted to be a director. However, it was not until the early talkies came along, and closely copied the technique of the stage that he was given his opportunity with "Madam X." The success of that picture immediately established him on the articulate end of the megaphone and he has since directed "Unholy Night," "The Rogue Song," "Ten Cents a Dance" and other hits.

This particular member of the royal family is a many-sided personality. He was a success on the stage in "The Jest," "The Copperhead" and many other well-known plays. He is a composer with many fine concertos to add to the list of his accomplishments.

In Paris he gave up the stage for a time and turned his mind and hand to painting.

As a screen actor he has scored in "Jim, the Penman," "The Lion and the Mouse," "West of Zanzibar" and "Alias Jimmy Valentine," to mention only a few.

Of course, in connecttion with his return to grease paint, there is the sub rosa tip that not entirely dissociated from his decision was the reputed view of the executives that the Barrymore units moved a trifle too deliberately in the completion of the scripts assigned it. But I wouldn't know about that.

On the other hand, there is the case of Constance Collier, once one of the stage's most popular actresses, who is now exceedingly busy on the other side of the footlights.

Her directorial hand has aided a half dozen plays this season, besides collaborating with Deems Taylor on his operatic version of "Peter Ibbetson," sung for the first time in Washington by the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company in the Fox Theater last Thursday night.

Now Miss Collier has revived the play based on the famous Du Maurier work, a play that by this time belongs almost as much to her as to the original author. It was Miss Collier who discovered the dramatization, revised it and played the original Duchess of Towers opposite John and Lionel Barrymore.

In the present production, the title role is played by Dennis King and Miss Collier's former role is intrusted to the competent hands of the lovely Jessie Royce Landis, who becomes an increasingly attractive actress with her every new play and portrayal.

Probably the same people who thought they had seen Benny Davis somewhere before, when he recently played the Palace with his "Broadway Stars of Tomorrow" revue, will be disturbed by the same haunting suspicion when they see Al Wohlman at the same theater in the "Nifties of 1931" revue this week.

The same summer that Benny operated his cabaret down the Boardwalk toward the Ritz in Atlantic City, Al Wohlman was sharing honors with Anatole Friedland in the floor show at the Ritz Grill. By far the best song he sang that summer was "Muddy Waters," into which he interpolated snatches of Kipling's "Boots," making it a sort of tragic chant that I would give something pretty—any part of a dime, to play safe, since he might do it—to hear him sing again during the current engagement.

I see by the papers that New York's smartest gossiper has come across the information that Jimmy Durante, of the team of Clayton, Jackson and Durante, now in "The New Yorkers" on Broadway, is to break up the famous team by going into pictures alone. That tip came straight to this column, and was published here, two or three months ago as a coup for the producers that was then already in the bag.

And is his face red!

In the newsreels this week, among other things, you will see President Hoover addressing the Pan-American delegates, paying his last respects to the late Speaker Longworth and opening the baseball season at Griffith Stadium; the former King of Spain, Alfonso XIII, repeating part of an earlier talk to the American public; Kaye Don breaking Gar Wood's speedboat record and, funniest of all, a bunch of chimpanzees taking their first outdoor dip of the year.

Invigorating, at that, these glorious spring days! Would you care to shoot a little crokinole, by any chance?

TOC H WILL OBSERVE ORGANIZATION HERE

Picturesque Ceremonies Set for Wednesday Night at Cathedral Chapel.

More than 100 members of Toc H, including officers of branches in New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, are expected to participate in picturesque ceremonies commemorating the founding of the Washington unit—the first branch in the United States—Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Bethlehem Chapel of Washington Cathedral. Arrangements also are being made for the accommodation of many others, as the function will be open to the general public.

Known as "the service of light," the ceremony will be featured by the relighting of a symbolic lamp as members of the group rededicate themselves to service, which they describe as "the rent we pay for our room on earth." The lamp, shaped like an ancient Roman household lamp, is the symbol of the order. It was lit originally from the flame of a parent lamp in London.

Coleman Jennings, chairman of the local Toc H executive committee, will be one of the speakers. The Rev. G. Freeland Peter, canon and chancellor of Washington Cathedral, is to offer final prayers. The Rev. Hulbert A. Woolfall, rector of St. Mark's Church and Toc H padre, also is to participate. The service will begin with a procession of Toc H members.

Toc H is a world-wide nonsectarian organization. It is the outgrowth of "Talbot House," conducted in the Ypres salient during the World War by the Rev. P. B. Clayton, an English army chaplain. Gradually Toc H branches were established in London and other parts of Great Britain. The Prince of Wales took interest in it and became its patron. It then spread to the English dominions, Australia, Canada and elsewhere.

Summarized, the Toc H purpose is to carry on through fellowship and service the ideals and ambitions of the "elder brethren" of the war. Toc H believes," it is stated in one of its pamphlets, "that they—the elder brethren—intrusted to those coming after them the task of building away at the City of God in the places they loved and left."

MANHATTAN Laundry

Net Bags Save You Money By Saving Your Clothes

MODERN LAUNDRY EXPERT EXPLAINS "NET BAG SYSTEM"

Tells How Manhattan Saves You Money By Saving Your Clothes

Present-day laundry methods, which preserve clothes as well as clean them, are far superior to the old home method of rubbing and scrubbing, according to Mr. E. F. Wesely, chief of the Research Department of Manhattan Laundry. Mr. Wesely attributes a large part of the Manhattan Laundry's success to their Net Bag System of washing.

Manhattan Laundry adopted the Net Bag for washing clothes six years ago. Clothes, they agreed, could be washed just as clean in net bags and would wear longer if rubbing and scrubbing were eliminated.

Manhattan's famous Net Bag System of washing, as described by Mr. Wesely, follows: First, the clothes are assorted according to their color and material and placed in individual net bags which bear the customer's name and contain only that customer's articles. Safe in the nets and protected from all metal or other hard surfaces, the clothes go into the washers. Here they are subjected to the gentle cleansing action of swirling hot suds which penetrate each garment and loosen every particle of dirt. Only the purest of Palm Oil soaps and soft, filtered water are used, after first having been inspected and tested by the Research Department. Many rinsings of fresh, clear water follow, removing every trace of dirt from the clothes and leaving the fabrics refreshed and clean. They are then dried, starched where necessary and ironed by the most modern methods.

That clothes wear longer and look better when washed in Net Bags has been proven by test after test. For instance, two shirts, exactly the same, were washed fifty times each, one in a net bag, the other by hand. At the end of the test the net-bag washed shirt showed absolutely no signs of wear, while the hand-washed shirt had become a sad combination of rough edges, torn seams and broken buttons. Other tests on all sorts of wearing apparel are being carried on regularly and in every case show the Net Bag System to be far superior in preserving the original sheen of the cloth. At Manhattan the Nets Get the Wear and the Clothes Get the Wash.

Enthusiastic Customer Praises Net Bag System

In a recent letter to the Manhattan Laundry Mrs. E. R. D. writes:

". . . But the one actual fact that pleases me most is that the clothes do not show as much wear as they did when I had my laundry done at home. . . . It is indeed a pleasure to recommend you. . . ."

This letter is typical of the many received by Manhattan from satisfied customers throughout the District of Columbia and Virginia.

Such letters bear out Manhattan's claim that "Net Bag Laundering Saves You Money by Saving Your Clothes."

Three-Day Collection And Delivery Service

Quite another Manhattan feature which has found great favor with Washington housewives is their 3-Day Collection and Delivery Service. In this highly developed system your clothes are collected one day, laundered to your order the next and delivered to you promptly the afternoon of the third day. For instance, if your clothes are collected Monday morning they are delivered Wednesday afternoon; called for Tuesday, back home Thursday, and so on. No delay. No worry. You know when you'll get your clothes when Manhattan has them. And there is no additional charge for this extra service.

Services To Fit Every Need And Every Purpose

Manhattan offers the housewife a wide selection of economical services—from Complete Finished Family to individual piece work. There is a service to fit every need and purse, and every service receives Net Bag Care.

Damp Wash is the most inexpensive service of all. It costs only 5 cents a pound, and as small as an 80-cent bundle can be sent. Clothes are returned damp, ready for the line. THRIF-T is another inexpensive service. Flat pieces are all ironed, but the wearing apparel is returned damp. Only 8 cents a pound with a minimum bundle of $1.

In the Rough Dry all the flat pieces are ironed, wearing apparel comes back ready to be ironed at home. Minimum bundle, 75 cents, only 10 cents a pound. In Economy another popular service, everything is machine ironed, including flat work, and returned ready for use. Men's shirts, 10 cents each additional. Few other articles may need retouching. Minimum, $1.25, only 12 cents a pound.

All Ironed Ready to Use. This covers all classes of Family Finished Laundry Service. These Ready-to-Wear services are reasonably priced according to the degree of niceties required. Our telephone operators will be glad to give any information regarding them.

There are many other Manhattan services to serve the housewife's every need. Shirts and Collars, Table and Bed Linens, Blankets, Rugs, Curtains and Dry Cleaning and Dyeing. All are economical. And the Net Bags Save You Money By Saving Your Clothes.

BRIDGE TOURNAMENT INTEREST MOUNTING

Players In and Near Capital Eagerly Await Event; System Explained.

Two weeks have elapsed since announcement was made of the holding of the first annual bridge tournament of Washington players, sponsored by The Washington Post, which is offering the trophies that will be awarded to the successful competitors.

The response has far exceeded the original expectations and hopes of the projectors of the undertaking and has indicated that the local players are keen for the engagement and for the opportunity of testing their skill with the added assurance that they will be participants in a brilliant event, the character of which is an innovation in bridge affairs in Washington.

Ten days more remain during which applications may be filed by filling out the blank printed daily in The Post and sending it to the bridge editor. No entries can be accepted that are mailed after midnight of April 30, for the time intervening between that date and May 14, the day on which the first session of the tournament will be held, is necessary for the preparation of the program, the allocation of the players and arranging the details of the event.

Players Need Not Worry.

Entrants are now especially interested in the method of playing duplicate bridge. In this connection it should be remembered that so far as bidding, leading and playing of each hand when once the declaration is determined, it is exactly the same as in the ordinary open social game. It is only the position of the players, their movement from table to table and the movement of the boards, each being played as one hand, and the system of scoring, that there is difference. With these matters, however, the participants need not concern themselves. They can rest assured that they are fair and equitable, and have been worked out on that basis by those who have given great study to tournament and duplicate playing.

The principal features involved in the movement of players and boards is briefly explained in a statement prepared and submitted to The Post by Mrs. George King, jr., a prominent bridge instructor, who has had wide experience in tournament and dipilicate playing, as follows:

Since the laws of duplicate contract require that each board shall be plainly marked regarding vulnerable features, there should be no confusion on this point. In each set of our boards one is marked "North and South Vulnerable," one "East and West Vulnerable," one "Both Sides Vulnerable," and one "Neither Side Vulnearble." The only difference in duplicate auction is that the boards are not so marked. The movements of players and boards is the same in both forms of the play.

No Mix-Up in Positions.

The positions at the table should cause no mix-up, since one end of the room where the match is played is arbitrarily designted as "North," and it follows that "South," "East" and "West" assume the relative compass positions. North and South players remain at the same tables and in the same positions during the entire match. East and West players at the end of each round move toward the foot or last table. From the last table East and West players go to table No. 1.

In the arrangement of sections, it is always best to have an odd number of tables. The boards to be played are equally divided in numerical order into as many sets as there are tables, and one set is played at each table, the set of the lowest numbered boards at table No. 1, and the next higher numbered boards at table No. 2, and so on. The lowest numbered boards in each set are played first. A round ends when all tables have finished playing one set. At the end of each round the sets of boards are moved by the North player to the next table toward table No. 1. From table No. 1 the boards are moved to the last table.

The play progresses until each team has played with each set of boards, the hands of which remain the same when played at each table, and this element of "luck of the cards" is eliminated and skill in playing them determines superiority.

Remember the dates of the tournament, May 14, 15 and 16, and the place the New Shoreham Hotel.

Trawler That Flashed S O S on Way to Shore

Boston, April 19 (A. P.)—The Boston fishing trawler Comber, which sent out an S O S last night giving her position about 400 miles out of Boston, was believed to be on her way here today. No word was received from her since a message shortly before midnight saying everything was all right.

The Comber was disabled by a leaking boiler. Her first message requested assistance and the Coast Guard cutter Aggasis, about 100 miles away, was ordered to speed to the disabled craft.

CONGRESS DECIDES.

The ladies who have organized to work for "prohibition reform" have handed to President Hoover a resolution declaring that present conditions are intolerable and that the Constitution and the laws must be changed, or words to that effect. They have gone to the wrong place for relief. They should direct their attention to Congress.

If the Constitution is to be changed by repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment the initiative must be taken by Congress. It is true that two-thirds of the States can require Congress to call a national convention for revision of the Constitution, but nobody believes that two-thirds of the States are ready to act, and there is decided opposition to a convention that would open the entire Constitution to revision. The other method of amending the Constitution is by the adoption of a specific proposal by Congress by a two-thirds vote, to be submitted to the legislatures or to State conventions.

No plan for a constitutional amendment proposed by a President, however urgent and wringing wet he might be, would be of any avail unless a two-thirds vote could be mustered in Congress.

The election of a wet President would not hasten repeal of the eighteenth amendment by a day unless a wet Congress were also elected; and the election of a dry President would not retard repeal if a wet Congress were elected.

When the excitement of wet and dry agitators has subsided, as it may when both sides discover that there can be no change during the next few years, it will be perceived that the struggle revolves around the election of senators and representatives, and not around the choice of a President.

Since neither party is all wet or all dry, neither can alienate either its wet or its dry members and hope to win control of the Government. The party that commits itself wholly to either side of this question will be beaten by the party that manages to hold both its wet and dry members. Therefore the wets who are working for repeal of the eighteenth amendment should not count upon success through either party; for if they should capture either party it would lose to the other. The drys thus far have exhibited a better brand of strategy by refraining from pressing either party too hard. They are working by States and by congressional districts, and are not too scrupulous as to party affiliations. A dry is a dry to them, whether Democrat or Republican. So long as they hold an enormous majority in Congress they can laugh the wets to scorn.

For these reasons John J. Raskob injures both his party and his wet cause when he insists that the Democratic party shall commit itself wholly to one side or the other. If it should take the wet side it would lose dry members and be beaten; and how would that help the party or the wet cause? If it should take the dry side it would be beaten by wet defection; and how would that help matters?

As a Democrat Mr. Raskob should gather in all the wet and dry following that he can find. It is his business to beat the Republican party, and he can not do this if he drives all the drys into the enemy's camp. The insistence with which Mr. Raskob thrusts forward the wet cause makes it appear that he is more interested in wetness than in Democracy. He can not find a Republican of similar authority who is not making Republican supremacy his first object, whether he is wet or dry.

When the wets pick up a wet senator or representative they make headway. When they concentrate upon electing a wet President they are wasting time. Control of Congress is their true goal.

WELCOME D. A. R.

Washington is pleased to welcome the Fortieth Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution. These annual gatherings have come to be a most interesting feature of the series of conventions which is held in the National Capital each spring. Delegates from all parts of the country come to Washington charged with a spirit of high patriotism. Their enthusiasm for Americanism is contagious. When they visit the national shrines of the Capital and meet in Constitution Hall their fervor for things American is accentuated, and their spirit of patriotism radiates to the whole country.

The Daughters of the American Revolution represent the cream of American womanhood. Their heritage gives them a peculiar right to interpret American history and to keep green and fresh the ideals which inspired our forefathers to lay the foundations of this Nation. Long years of vigilant service to their country has made them especially worthy to carry on those ideals.

Time has vindicated the opposition of the D. A. R. to communism. When this plague was only a fanciful theory the D. A. R. recognized its menace to American principles and ideals. That organization has waged a militant campaign against the reds. Now the whole country is beginning to recognize the inherent dangers of communism for all mankind.

The Daughters of the American Revolution have stood solidly for national defense. Pacifistic propaganda and impractical schemes for disarming the United States while all the rest of the world puts its trust in armaments have not swerved them. Time will likewise vindicate the wisdom of this policy.

Washington and the whole country profit much from the determined championship of Americanism by this group of patriotic women. Their own reward must be a deep satisfaction that they have played an important role in the formulation of public opinion which tends to perpetuate American principles and institutions.

WASTING THE SOIL.

J. Russell Smith, who recently published a book on "Tree Crops," thinks the country needs an enlarged definition of treason. Some people should not be allowed to sing "My Country," he says, because they are destroying it so rapidly. He had in mind the depletion of American forests and the consequent erosion of soil which carried millions of tons of valuable plant food into the sea every year.

No one recognizes this waste more poignantly than officials in the Department of Agriculture. Yet with their limited funds they can do but little to prevent it. Soil conservation on the farm is being studied and a feeble attempt is being made to replant denuded forest land. But this constructive work is so infinitesimal in comparison with the destructive forces which are at work that the country is constantly and literally losing ground.

A report from the forest service illustrates the inadequacy of the restoration program. In 1930 more than 21,000 acres in the national forests were planted to trees. This was a considerable gain over the previous year, and it is hoped that as many as 25,000 acres may be planted this year. But another division of the Forest Service reports that 137,949 acres of national forest were destroyed last year by forest fires. Damage from fires was unusually light last year because of the heavy rains in the West, but even in those circumstances the area destroyed was nearly seven times as large as the area planted.

Part of the burned-over area is reseeded by natural means. But vast stretches remain bare and are soon ruined by erosion. The Forest Service reports that large sections of both cut-over and burned-over forest land remain unplanted, and that reseeding is seriously out of balance with other forest activities.

When one turns from the national forests to the wooded areas of the entire country the outlook is much more discouraging. In 1929 a total of 107,557 acres of forest were planted by the States, the Government, municipalities, farmers and industrial organizations. A considerable share of this work was done by the States, some of which plant a greater acreage within their borders than the Government plants on its entire national forests. During 1929 46,230,000 acres of woodland were destroyed by fire. In other words, the area destroyed was nearly 400 times as great as the area planted. Nature will restore some of this land, but much will remain a waste unless replanted by man. It is a reproach to America that nearly 90 per cent of this destruction takes place on forest areas that remain unprotected from fire and that so little is being done to save the country from the ravages of soil erosion and intermittent floods and drought.

THE OIL SCHEME.

The plan that has been floated to form a compact between certain States for the purpose of restricting the output of petroleum and raising prices to consumers is colliding with the first rocks in a series of deadly rapids. The plan depends for its success upon the restriction of petroleum imports, as otherwise cheap foreign oil would capture the market; and now Attorney General Mitchell gives unmistakable warning that agreements to restrict imports are unlawful and will bring punishment.

The hope is cherished in some quarters that oil importers may somehow evade the law, by "voluntarily" restricting, and by acting "individually" and not in concert. But this hope is vain, for the reason that it is based upon the presumption that importers will not only voluntarily refuse to get rich quick when their competitors give them the opportunity, but will contribute to the wealth of their competitors. Oil concerns are not organized on such altruistic lines. If any industry is remorseless in exacting all that the traffic will bear it is the oil industry. When oil interests clash there is no mercy in the competition.

No importer of oil dares to give written assurance that he will restrict imports. Without a written assurance he can not be depended upon to curtail imports, especially if a better or larger market is opened.

The proposed compact of oil States is essentially a plan looking to restraint of trade. Congress would be compelled to reverse the economic policy of the Government in order to ratify such a compact. Will 38 States consent to restraint of trade by 10 others? The ultimate object of the plan is to boost the price of oil and gasoline. Will the representatives of 38 States vote in favor of overtaxing the consumers in their States for the benefit of the producers in 10 States?

The projectors of this plan deny that price-boosting is intended. They insist that the plan is intended solely to regulate the output of petroleum, so that overproduction may be stopped and small producers be given a pro rata chance to market their oil. They assert that small producers must keep on producing or lose their wells, and that the surplus from flush fields bears down the price so that small producers can not make money. If these are the facts, and if petroleum should be regulated, are the oil States willing to have the price regulated also? If so, who is to do the regulating of output and price? Do the oil States intend to regulate the oil supply for the Nation, and fix the price of oil and gasoline, or are they willing to give this power over their industry to the Government?

The spectacle of an intestine war among the States composing the oil league of nations is conjured up by this proposed compact. Their treaty might be badly mauled if its enforcement were in their own hands. Congress could intervene among the warring sisters, of course, and settle the quarrel by taking over the oil industry. Uncle Sam would then have the filling stations to look after, if he could spare time from manufacturing fertilizer and selling electric juice.

The scheme to make unprofitable little oil wells profitable by State compacts and unlawful restriction of imports opens up a rare vista of socialism.

If the Liberals in England had only remained liberal, Premier MacDonald might have been able to negotiate an apple-selling partnership with King Alfonso.

Nicaragua is beginning to see that there are some things worse than earthquakes.

From the London Times.

It is as important for rats as for humans to have good mothers. In fact a rat has commonly so many twin brothers and sisters that he can only get at best a small share of maternal care, and it is safe to say that few if any young rats are spoilt in the sense in which human beings understand the term. If rats are seen or heard searching feverishly in the house, it is some mitigation of their inopportune scufflings to remember that they must find plenty of manganese, or at any rate some. Without manganese in the diet—the American scientists have checked the fact—rats become indifferent, or almost indifferent, to their offspring and show no maternal feeling. No one will hastily blame the young rat who exerts all his small energies to find something with manganese in it and to drag it back for his mother to eat. On the other hand the enemies of rats, such as farmers and the like, will want a campaign to abolish manganese from the earth. It will have to be broken to some claimants that not even governments can get rid of all the manganese there is, for it is highly ubiquitous and can be extracted by skilled scientists from the air and the sea and soda water as easily as more commonplace conjurers extract half-crowns from noses and ears. It is far more common than people who just know the name suppose.

It is not by shutting off supplies that the new knowledge of their physical economy can be turned against rats. The advantage is rather psychological. The most effective blow ever struck against rats and mice came when they were, by a piece of brilliant propaganda, classed as vermin. People who might have been awed by the extreme ability and persistence of these mammals into watching with detached admiration how they conducted their lives felt quite differently, and much bolder, when they considered they might be caught in the act of tolerating vermin. All the English tradition of baths and soap came into play. Today, when a mouse has eclipsed all human film stars in versatility and high-spirited courage, it is good to be reassured by science that rats are, after all, dependent on a common chemical for behaving with common decency to their own children. Women in the age of the new feminism are ashamed of the fear they used to show; but an atavistic uneasiness remains, and it will comfort many of the remaining housemaids, when fighting a tendency to mount the kitchen table, to whisper the magic word "manganese." It will not frighten away the rat, but it will hearten the housemaid.

Shortsighted people sometimes complain that too much scientific money is spent on inquiries into the health of insignificant animals. Scientists are fond of saying that the study of the inside of a mole is the direct and obvious and easy way of learning how to help the querulous person who objects to so much expense. This answer, however true, is tactless. It shows, what is, alas! only too well known, that scientists are not always men of deep humane culture and breadth. They do not allow for human vanity. The real defense of lives devoted to the ailments of field mice and weasels is that most scientists watch their kind and concentrate on the human body. In the result we hear a succession of humiliating things about our bodies and their dependence on cheap chemicals. We forget that after all we can not escape being dependent upon the air which costs nothing at all, and that, if we accept that, we ought not to mind further proofs of dependence. We know that the strong sun brings all manner of temptations and powerfully affects our tempers, and we ought not greatly to mind hearing that the presence or absence of chemicals also changes our environment. But it remains a real consolation to realize that animals are in an even more humiliating position, and each fact of that kind is an encouragement. The scientists who seek them out and publish them are really patriotic journalists, keeping up the spirits of the human race while other scientists break to it the truth about itself.

Bulletin: The Marines, penetrating the wilds of Rapidan yesterday, found no Sandinistas.

"First for the Spanish King, first for the Spanish Republic, first for France!" How's that for a business-like slogan.

Uncle Sam's new "poor house" might be a useful haven for the Nicaragua refugees.

Sandino's ears were burning yesterday all right if he heard what kind of a bandit Secretary Stimson called him.

Paris will have to look to her laurels as Washington prepares to welcome a king who is still a king.

"Where a demand exists which can be supplied at an adequate profit the supply will reach the point of the demand," says Col. Anderson, of the Wickersham Commission. In less than 20 minutes, usually, Colonel, in Washington.

The prize surprise last week was the confession of a former Cabinet member that he would accept the Democratic nomination for the Presidency if the convention chose him.

Spain now plans elections in May to make up Alfonso's mind whether he will accept that $150,000 job with a trust company.

Silence is still golden. No one cares much about the free coinage of silver-tongued orators; everybody is waiting to hear that a few par-value notes have been issued by Charlie Curtis and Al Smith.

Spain doesn't have to take our unsupported word for it. Calvin Coolidge also warns that "Republics do not come into being ready made."

Maintaining royal dignity has its drawbacks. The King of Siam hastens eastward for formal receptions, but father-in-law drops off for a side trip to Hollywood.

Will the house of Morgan be terribly peeved that the new and untried Spanish republic decides to return the $60,000,000 loan?

Apple stands that were growing into corner groceries are to be decurbed.

Plenty of Democrats are trying to take away Mr. Raskob's leadership, but still no one threatens to relieve him of the party debt. P. H.

ADVERTISING PAYS.

The William Wrigley Co., of Chicago, spent more money for advertising in 1930 than any year in its history, says the Boston Post. And the 1930 profits were vastly larger than ever before rolled up by the company. In the face of depression Mr. Wrigley appropriated several extra millions for advertising his product, hoping to get part of it back at least. He got it all, and much more in the bargain.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

PERFECTION.

Bright and beautiful and gay
Twenty roses in bouquet,
Twenty roses, pink and white!
Where could be a prettier sight?
But an expert shook his head.
"Just one perfect bloom," he said.

"Most of these have suffered pain,
Borne the wind and felt the rain,
Struggled for existence, and
If a rose you understand—
Closely scan them you will see
Flaws and faults that shouldn't be.

"Here's the only perfect bloom
Of the twenty in the room.
See the petals, note the stem,
Just as God intended them,
All the rest, though fair to see
Fail the finished rose to be."

"Since," thought I, "the perfect rose
Only very seldom grows
Is it any wonder then
In this teeming world of men,
Swayed and torn by storms of care,
Perfect souls are very rare."

You Can't Subdue Enemies by Consulting Them About Your Weapons.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE prison problem is magnified by the efforts of those who attempt to solve it by means of sentiment instead of reason.

Sentiment regards prisoners as ordinary men overcome by misfortune; reason recognizes them as enemies of society.

If they were like ordinary men, amenable to law, willing to play the game according to the rules, restrained by conscience and guided by a desire to do right, they wouldn't be where they are.

Some of them are first offenders. Some of them are repentant and innocent of heart. But as a class they are hard and evil men, without conscience, by nature or training rebels against society.

They can not be treated as ordinary men are; their inability to deserve such treatment was established beyond question when they broke the rules that ordinary men obey.

In one particular, however, they are like all men. They prize liberty above everything else. And the power to take away their liberty is the one weapon they fear.

That being true, the power to deny or restore liberty should be the most effective instrument in maintaining discipline, breaking rebellious spirits and rewarding good behavior.

Numbers of prominent men blame the parole system for recent prison riots.

"Dissatisfaction with the parole system causes prisoners to riot," they argue, "and therefore the system should be abolished."

It is an argument that has little merit. Dissatisfaction with confinement also causes prisoners to riot, but it does not follow that they should be turned loose.

It isn't the parole system that is wrong; it is the application of it.

Whether prisoners like it or not is a matter of small importance. They aren't in prison to get what they like. The have sacrificed the right to think and choose for themselves. They must take what society thinks is good for them.

And if the parole system and the indeterminate sentence are just and right, serving to control rebellious prisoners and reward the repentant, then society should continue their use regardless of riots or threats of riots.

There is too much inclination to consider the "rights" of criminals and forget the rights of law-abiding people.

Society should adopt a prison policy that is humane, just and effective, and then enforce it without regard for the opinion of outlaws.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Senator Couzens' Warning.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Senator Couzens, of Michigan, who for several years has been urging the leaders of industry to readjust business so that employment may be stabilized and workers able and willing to work may be assured of living wages throughout the year, has issued a warning to business. He tells the business men that if they do not take up and solve the question of unemployment, Congress will be forced to take measures for the regulation of business by pressure from the people. How far the regulation will be carried, although Senator Couzens predicts unemployment insurance and old age pensions quickly, no one can foresee.

The senator's warning is addressed to the meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce at Atlantic City, April 28 to May 1. He has gone to headquarters with his urgent call to action. He says that Congress will not act unless there is great need and pressure, but makes the point that industry itself has supplied the need, and prevailing conditions will supply the pressure from the people. He says the American people have exhibited great patience in giving industry the opportunity to take care of unemployment and the unequal adjustment of industrial operation, but he does not think they will wait much longer.

Keeps Party Split Open.

Albert Lea (Minn.) Tribune.

Mr. Raskob, who thinks more of making the country wet than he does of the welfare of the Democratic party, is helping very materially to keep the Democratic States in the Republican column. Undoubtedly the Democrats would be pleased to shunt this "fly in the ointment" off on a side track for good. As long as Raskob is active in the Democratic party, it is hopelessly split.

Wonderful!

Detroit News.

A New York congressman recently got off an unusually intelligent letter, which was printed in the Times, of that city.

The Tariff Is Foremost.

Atlanta Constitution.

Conditions of the country, and not the manuerving politicians, often make the issues of state and national campaigns. More often than otherwise since the days of Henry Clay and his "American system" the tariff legislation of the Congress has been the dominant issue before the people. All efforts that have been made to "take the tariff out of politics" and make it a nonpartisan business subject have failed.

The effects of tariff measures touch the living and working conditions of all the people and that makes the discussion of them perennial among the people, who rightly charge them to political causes and look for relief from them to political reactions.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

District Should Not Be Hasty in Retiring Experienced Fire Chiefs Who Are Still Able-Bodied.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am heartily in accord with Mr. I. B. Cross' article in today's issue of your paper, referring to the compulsory retirement of Deputy Fire Chief Nicholson when he attains the age of 64 years. I desire to go Mr. Cross one better and include in the complaint all others, including Chief Kelliher and Superintendent of Machinery John D. Leeman.

To my way of thinking the citizens of the District are being deprived of three valuable men, whose places will be hard to fill. If I remember correctly, the law enacted by Congress providing for the retirement of firemen states that a fireman can be retired at the age of 55 years, after 25 years of service on his application for same due to disability, or at the age of 60 years, with 30 years' service on his own request and at the discretion of the Commissioners. As far as I know, no provision in the law grants the Commissioners authority to set a compulsory retirement age at 64 years. Be that as it may, the taxpayers are the losers. All three of these public servants have given a life study to the fire hazards in our ever-growing city, and with the erection of the new Government buildings we need the service of these experienced fire-fighters, not merely for what they do, but primarily for what they know.

The matter of the loss of their advice and counsel will mean a great blow and probably a calamity to the property owners of this city. It is to be hoped that your paper and the citizens of the District will vigorously protest this order and that our good Commissioners will realize that they innnocently erred in ordering the compulsory retirement of these men and will rescind the order.

Citizens of the District are earnestly urged to cooperate with the citizens associations and all other civic organizations in protesting to the Commissioners, and to seek the recall of this unwise order. I appeal to the Commisioners through your paper to retain these public servants for the safety of our property and families.

Dr. Biggs Suggests That Bicentennial Guides Be Carefully Trained.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am inclosing herewith a carbon copy of a letter sent to the Hon. Sol Bloom, which is self-explanatory.

"Dear Sir: As there are so many angles to your work as director of the George Washington Bicentennial Celebration, I presume you would welcome suggestions that will be helpful in making your work a success.

"I am therefore taking the liberty of making what I consider a constructive suggestion. During the year 193[illegible] hundreds of thousands of visitors will come to Washington, as well as go to other centers where the celebrations are held, many of them being persons who have not been many miles from their homes before. It is therefore desirable that the information and impressions that they receive should be both interesting and accurate.

"I therefore suggest that you appoint a committee, preferably of teachers in the school, college or university life of Washington, to select and train all guides, who will explain the different phases of the history, art and architecture during the celebration. I believe that such a committee will not only gladly volunteeer to do the work for Washington, but would so organize it that high school instructors in all of the centers where the celebrations will be held would cooperate to train community guides.

"In my humble opinion, no guide should be permitted to act who has not had at least four years of high school education. He should also be one who speaks good English, who has a special course in American history, who has had some brief training, at least, in the different periods of architecture, and who is familiar with the names and history of all of the great artists, ancient and modern.

"This seems like a large order for a guide, but I am sure that there are many high school graduates who, with brief training by a committee of teachers, could readily adapt themselves to give a true picture to the tourist, which would be instructive as well as beneficial to him for all time. J. ROZIER BIGGS.

Purpose of Antiliquor Laws Is Not to Reform Drunkards.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As quoted by the press, a speaker before the ladies who favor "prohibition reform" (meaning repeal) said:

"It is not politically sound nor morally right to attempt to deprive the vast majority of their freedom of choice in order to impose on weaklings the assumed benefits and the arbitrary restraints of a fanatical paternalism."

This view of the matter is painfully superficial. In the earlier days of the antiliquor fight, some forty or fifty years ago, principal stress was placed upon the necessity of protecting the young from the formation of the liquor habit. To this end, nearly all of the States adopted laws requiring instruction in the public schools on the effects of alcohol and narcotics on the human system. Such a statute, passed in 1886, is now applicable to the schools of the District of Columbia. As a further protection, attempts were made to prevent by legislation the sale of drink to minors. The need of such measures was admitted by nearly everybody, including some of the saloonkeepers. Apparently the speaker above quoted was under the impression that the only purpose of the antiliquor laws is to reform drunkards.

Wakefield Association to Conduct Visit to Famous Gardens.

Mrs. Pierce Is Married to New Yorker

Barclay Warburton, Jr., Takes Divorcee as His Bride.

From Chicago comes the news of the marriage there on Saturday of Mrs. Evelyn McManus Pierce and Mr. Barclay H. Warburton, jr., of New York, grandson of the late John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia and son of Barclay H. Warburton, former publisher of the Philadelphia Evening Telegram.

Mr. Warburton, jr., is a veteran of the World War and holds the rank of lieutenant. He also served on the Hoover commission in Poland.

Mr. Warburton, who gave his age as 32, is the former husband of the present Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt. He was divorced by his first wife in Paris in 1927. Mr. Vanderbilt was divorced by Mrs. Virginia Fair Vanderbilt in Paris and his marriage to Mrs. Lancaster Warburton took place a few months later.

Mrs. Pierce, who, before her marriage to H. Denny Pierce in 1923, was Miss Evelyn Hall McManus, left New York for Reno in January. Her husband saw her off on the train. It was reported at the time that she would marry Warburton when her divorce decree became final.

The first marriages of both Mr. Warburton and the former Miss McManus took place secretly. Mr. Warburton and Miss Rosamond Lancaster, of Worcester, Mass., who had been active in war work in Philadelphia, were married on December 10, 1919, at Elkton, Md., returning by motor and keeping the secret from their friends and families. Their engagement had been announced about two months previously.

Miss McManus and Mr. Pierce were married quietly at the Municipal Building in New York in January, 1923.

Mr. Pierce resides at 938 Park avenue, New York. He is a graduate of Princeton and in the war he served with the American flying forces.

Miss Kaplowitz Is Wed To Mr. Mondzac.

The wedding of Miss Sally Kaplowitz, daughter of Mr. Max Kaplowitz, of Washington, and Mr. David Mondzac, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Mondzac, of Brooklyn, N. Y., but now connected with the National Jewish Ledger in Washington, took place Thursday evening at the residence of Rabbi Solomon Metz, in the presence of the immediate families and a few friends. The bride wore a blue tailored suit, the cuffs trimmed with beige fox and an egg-shell blouse. Her corsage was yellow tea roses and lilies of the valley.

Body by Fisher, chassis by Buick . . . a combination of luxury, safety and fine performance which wins for Buick alone more sales than the 13 other eights in its field combined.

The beauty of Fisher styling and the enduring strength of Fisher composite wood-and-steel construction inspire true pride of ownership, as well as a feeling of complete security throughout the months and years you drive a Buick.

And, just as Fisher builds for surpassing beauty, luxury and durability, so Buick builds each chassis to give you exceptional performance and reliability. All four series of new Buicks have the powerful Valve-in-Head Straight Eight engine. All have silent-shift Syncro-Mesh transmission, which makes Buick drivers expert at non-clash gear-shifting. All have Torque Tube Drive, the secret of Buick's extreme steadiness on the road and ease of control.

Body by Fisher, chassis by Buick . . . together they form a combination de luxe . . . a motor car of such outstanding value that it will pay you to examine and drive the new Buick Straight Eight before buying any car.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list price when comparing motor car values.

Owing to their popularity, the present models of 1931 Buick Straight Eights will be continued throughout the coming summer and fall.

THROUGH court action in Franklin, Ind., recently it was disclosed that Ernest Patrick, young Edinburg mechanic, has sold a tubeless radio set, his own invention, to four Chicago men. The contract, filed in court, indicated that Patrick received $5,000 for his invention and was assured employment at $250 a month on radio research. Patrick, recently married, celebrated his twentieth birthday April 7.

Buyers of the invention were Walter Magill, Frank Burton, Martin Flanagan, a radio engineer, and Harold C. Strotz.

In the court action it was disclosed that a previous contract for sale of the tubeless radio to O. E. Caudell, of Indianapolis, had been declared void because Caudell was unable to finance development of the apparatus. Caudell previously had paid young Patrick $500 cash and $50 a month for his work as well as supplying material for furthetr radio research, it was reported.

The court action was necessary because young Patrick, being a minor, is under guardianship of his father, John Patrick.

A television apparatus, said to have been invented by the Edinburg youth and supposedly containing many improvements on the apparatus now in general use, will remain the property of the young man for further development.

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE ROBERT P. LAMONT, Secretary of Labor William N. Doak and other principal speakers attending the National Conference of Business Paper Editors in Washington will discuss the current business situation this evening (WMAL, 6 p. m.).

The principal speaker at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press today will be Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. (WRC, 2:15 p. m.).

Ben Alley, tenor, will conclude his second year of continuous broadcasting over CBS today. In this period he has appeared on more than 950 programs, singing an average of four songs a broadcast.

If Sherlock Holmes could be reincarnated and be present beside a radio when a Holmes-Watson adventure is broadcast, we believe he would be entirely satisfied with the sound effects used in recreating his tales (WRC, 10 p. m.).

"Jazz music is preferred by the majority of radio listeners today. Whether those words are pleasant or distasteful—whether they lead you to the conclusion that the world is going to the dogs or confirm your belief that happy days are here again—it is none the less a fact that the radio audience as a whole is thoroughly in favor of popular dance tunes and will listen to them, no matter what other kinds of music may be available."

The above statement is made by a trade magazine in presenting a response to a questionnaire sent out to a number of radio stations asking them to list the musical numbers that requests and fan mail show to be the most popular with their listeners at the present time. Of the lists returned, more than half are said to include nothing but dance music.

Giving her last recital of the season, Steffy Goldner, noted harpist, will be presented tonight (WMAL, 9:30 p. m.).

"Oedipus Rex," the unusual Stravinsky opera which will be heard over the WJZ network tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock will feature Margaret Matzenauer, contralto; Paul Althouse, tenor, and members of the Harvard Glee Club. Leopold Stokowski will direct the entire performance.

The networks find it necessary to shift many of their programs in preparation for daylight saving time, effective next Sunday. These changes are being made daily by NBC. Followers of "Snoop and Peep" will find them on WEAF's network at 7:30 p. m. tonight.

AS director of an orchestra for NBC, Charles "Buddy" Rogers, movie actor, is expected to sign for a series of 30 weekly broadcasts. This contract is part of a plan to build new radio names, with Jack Oakie, Frank Fay and Stanley Smith all Hollywoodites, also under consideration.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Paris, April 19.

ALL these years I've used the word "chic" and just took it for granted that both of us knew exactly what it meant. But I was talking the other day to another famous fashion expert and I happened to say to her casually, "What is this thing called chic?" and when she answered, "Oh, a certain indefinable something"—I knew I'd have to set this busy brain working on a more definite definition for you. Because I don't believe in "indefinable somethings" at least not where anything as definite as "chic" is concerned!

In the first place "chic" or "smartness" or "elegance" doesn't depend solely on your wearing the latest in style offerings—nor on your being young or slender or beautiful, nor on your wearing your clothes with an "air." (Though I might say they all help a lot!) So—not to keep you in suspense any longer, it depends on two little, simple things. Nothing more nor less than (1) the suitability of your attire to the occasion and principally (2) being well groomed; what the French call "soigne."

The first rule is pretty obvious and I'll take it for granted that you know enough not to wear a lace afternoon dress to an informal luncheon or a sport coat over your evening frock. But do you realize the endless care and attention to little details that being "well groomed" demands?

Do think of the smartest (not just the best-dressed) woman you know and you'll see what I mean right away. What did I tell you! Hasn't the most painstaking and the most minute care been given to every single phase of her appearance? No creases where no creases are meant to be. No stray wisps of hair. Make up smooth and unosentatious. Gloves fresh and not too close-fitting, &c. Sort of a sparkle of freshness all over her. In short, well groomed, "soigne"—chic, elegant and smart. N'est-ce pas?

* * * *

And comes the day when organdie—loveliest and coolest and summerest of fabrics—is treated with the crisp charm it deserves. Boue Soeurs have made a frock of white and rose organdie whose lovely lines are a far cry from the billowy bouffancy that made organdie possible only for the most willowy and youthful figure. The chic blouse is white, embroidered in red, and the skirt, snugly incrusted about the hips and pleated in groups, is red. I mean—who ever dreamed of an organdie dress that really fits? 'N' gives Miladi's own feminine curves an adornment, and not a concealing cloud!

* * * *

Ever since the day that the straw broke the camel's back the little things in life have had lots of prominence and publicity, now haven't they? And who can wonder—seeing how one tiny detail can make or mar a costume, or how one tiny minute can control Miladi's catching or losing the transcontinental express! 'N' being deeply philosophical thought that small things like not finding a clean pair of gloves in all that pile of them in the upper drawer, or having to go through twelve different hat boxes to find the beige tricorne made all the trouble. 'N' I don't like trouble, so I sat me down and did some heavy thinking and careful experimenting, and I worked out a leaflet of—wel-l-l-l-l, gadgets is about the only word for them—that made such difficulties impossible Better hurry and send your stamped, self-addressed envelope for the leaflet to the Dare department of The Washington Post. You'll adore the boxes with doors, the tricky little tie-on hanger covers and all the idea-ettes that I have written about and illustrated for you!

* * * *

And there are some sports beads illustrated for you today, that I thought you would like to see made up into a necklace. Wood and silver, you know.

* * * *

Pyjamas and to what extent the smart woman is wearing them provide an interesting subject for Dare's weekly fashion letter in next Sunday's Washington Post.

Au Revoir.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

IN the previous article of this series the family name "Holland" was discussed as an English name and as found in Ireland. It was noted that in Ireland "Holland" is frequently a shortened form of "Mulholland." The family name "Mulholland" is especially common in Ulster. Its commonest variations are "Mulhollan," "Mulhallen," "Mulholn" and "Maholland." In most cases these names are modern forms of the original Irish "O Maohchallann," which may be translated "the descendant of the chief of the kalends." As a German name, "Holland" indicates an original residence in the European country of that name. Some of its common German variations are "Hollander," "Hollaender" and "Hollenders." The distinguished bearers of the family name "Holland" are most numerous. One may mention Josiah Gilbert Holland (1819-1881), an American author, journalist and editor, and Philemon Holland (1552-1637), a noted English author who also became famous as a translator.

The family name "Fitch" is sometimes a corruption of "Fitz," and therefore means "the son." However, in the great majority of cases "Fitch" means "the polecat," and was first given as a nickname. This name appears to be first recorded in the Hundred Rolls (1273). That important document includes the names of William Fitche, Roger Fichet and Crispiana Fichet. "Fichet" is merely a diminutive form of "Fitch." Of the many distinguished bearers of this name one may metnion John Fitch (1743-1798), an American inventor, Ebenezer Fitch (1756-1833), an American clergyman and educator, and Ralph Fitch, a famous English explorer of India in the sixteenth century.

Watch this column every day. Your name will appear here.

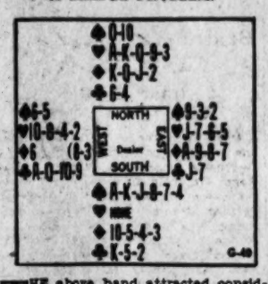
WORK ON BRIDGE

A BRIDGE PROBLEM.



THE above hand attracted considerable notice when it was played in a recent Duplicate Contract Bridge tournament in Boston. South might have made an opening bid of two Spades, counting the Ace-King-Jack of Spades as two and a half high-card tricks and the King of Clubs as a half trick to produce the three needed for a two-bid; of course the three low-card tricks in Spades were quite obvious; but the various players in the South seat all were more conservative and limited their initial effort to a bid of one Spade. West bid two Clubs (quite proper for a following bid), North bid three Hearts (a forcing jump-shifting), South bid three Spades and North four Spades; East and West maintaining a discreet silence after West's one and only bid.

Have you entered The Washington Post First Annual Bridge Tournament?

Full details of the tournament will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Read the plan for the championship tournament and fill out the entry blank.

At Auction Bridge the bidding would have been: South one Spade, West two Clubs, North two Hearts, East pass, and South two Spades.

With South the Declarer, the contract four Spades and West the leader, how many tricks do you suppose were taken by the East and West pair who made the most effective defense?

I believe that this hand and the situation it introduces has sufficient interest to justify departing from my usual custom and making it a "continued-in-my-next" instead of giving the hand and play on the same day. My readers will have until tomorrow to determine how this distinctly unusual hand was played. Remember this is not a double-dummy problem, but a question of what each player should do under actual playing conditions. Play it over yourself as you think it should be played and then tomorrow see whether your play coincides with that of the Boston pair who made the top East and West score.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"Aries."

IF April 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10:15 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m. and 7 p. m. to 8:20 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 4:30 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Astrological influences on April 20 will retard rather than promote your interests, and you will meet with unsurmountable obstacles, temporary in nature, however. The depressing atmosphere of the day will be lifted after sunset, and you will meet the evening engagements with a light heart.

The child born on this April 20 will have many endearing qualities, and it is destined to find much happiness, a world full of friends and a goodly share of material prosperity. It will have a good mind, a nimble tongue, clever hands and a disposition full of sunshine.

If born on an April 20, you will live on a mediocre level. You start things off with a big bang, but you soon reach a point beyond which you never make progress. Indifference and boredom creep in and cause you to drop interest in those things, from which you could anticipate big returns. Your "off with the old," and "on with the new" policy, does not inure to your benefit. Others expect big things from you, until they find out how shallow-rooted most of your enthusiasms are.

You have a brusque manner, and although friendly at heart, you do not draw people to you. Your bark may be worse than your bite, but it is alarming and unpleasant to many. You easily get miffed, and fall into a dark mood. At such times you seem to like to be miserable, and to make your associates equally so. When you are in one of your jolly moods, you are most gracious and charming, and a most desirable companion. Your temperament is not an even one, and you allow externals to upset you too easily. You should try to uproot the seeds of resentment which lie in your system, as they sour your sweeter nature.

You work hard by fits and spells, and you can accomplish things in double-quick time, when the working mood is on. At other times you frown at the demands of duty, and you go at things in a half-hearted way. You will have many thrills during your life, and short periods of great happiness, but you do not have the powers within you to generate chronic contentment.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

PLANTING ROSES.

NO doubt the large flower shows that are being held annually, semiannually and quarterly in almost every village, town or city throughout the country have taught us much about roses. Here we have had an opportunity to learn the names of the new varieties that are being constantly introduced and to learn how to arrange them to the best advantage in our gardens.

We now know that a rose hedge is just as possible as a hedge of privet or lilacs. We also know how to control blackspot, one of the most dreaded of rose diseases, and how to prune our bushes so that we will not only have roses in June, but roses in September as well. But even with a great deal of general information at our command there are some definite rules about the growing of roses that we must understand if we are to have maximum results.

The ideal place for roses is a sunny stretch, sheltered from the north winds of winter and away from the roots of trees or strong growing vines or shrubbery. Roses never do well in shade. Never plant roses in the lowest place in your grounds. Such a spot is rarely well drained and is as a rule subject to late spring frosts. Every experienced grower knows that late spring frosts are much to be dreaded after a few warm days have coaxed the tender shoots of the roses into growth. Where you have a choice of exposures, choose a southern one. Morning sun is better than afternoon sun.

If the only place available happens to be a shady one for five hours each day, better plant only red roses, as they seem to be more indifferent to a lack of prolonged sunshine than do white or pink varieties.

Too much can not be said of the importance of choosing the proper home for our roses. We can supply drainage and we can change soil conditions, but we can not regulate the sun. And roses are particular. Though the members of this family are legion, there are no shade lovers among them.

Roses do best in deep loam. They abhor wet feet. You can always improve the drainage by digging out the bed to the depth of 3 feet and placing in the bottom of the cavity 1 foot of coal clinkers, broken brick, gravel or, in fact, anything that will permit the free passage of excess water.

A rose bed should be dug, when possible, several weeks in advance of actual planting. The advance digging permits the ground to settle. Dig to the depth of 18 inches independent of drainage and incorporate with the loam well-rotted stable manure to the amount of one-third of the bulk. Set the plants eighteen inches apart.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Degradation Plus.

DEAR Frances McDonald: I am in a great deal of trouble and would more than appreciate your advice. I believe you are a perfect blessing to people who have marital troubles.

I married at the age of 17. Ran away from college, married a young handsome Southerner, and, I too am from the glorious old South. We have been married twelve years, and have a little girl 9 years old. I have had many a heartache, but have tried so hard not to let any one know, although they have found out certain things.

My husband has never tried to take care of me, or my little girl. He spends all he makes on himself. Runs around all time, sometimes is out all night without letting me know or hear from him since he left early in the morning for work and sometimes strikes me.

I am a domestic person, crave a home, love to cook. And I have a hot dinner each night for him, but he seldom comes home. I'd love to meet some one to advise me just what to do. How dearly I'd love to have several more babies. I adore them and long for them. And how happy I'd be if he would realize his mistakes. He says its nothing I do that causes him to do so many mean things to make me unhappy. He never explains where he goes or never has the patience to be a real husband or father. It is breaking my heart.

I have been working for years, and I still am, he has no responsibility at all, as I take care of my little girl and self and pay for over half the expenses of the home.

I am still young, attractive, pretty and have host of loyal friends.

Both our families are well to do. His people think the world of me and know he's in the wrong. They have lived off and on with us during all of our life together. Sometimes, I wonder what the trouble can be. When I see so many men with unfaithful wives, that are more than devoted to them, it hurts me so much to have my marriage turn out such a failure.

I wish so much you'd answer my letter soon, as I shall wait anxiously for your advice.

I can't understand him. When we are out together he watches everything I do, if I am nice to a man or get attentions from any one, he makes a very unpleasant scene before all my friends, and humiliates me to death.

Could it be possible he could care for me and treat me so neglectful?

The things I love I wouldn't dare abuse. I wouldn't do anything to hurt him for anything. He and my little girl mean the world to me. But I must leave him for I can not put up 'the Brave Front' any longer.

Please let me hear from you and thanks so much.

HEART BROKEN.

You have married one of the spoiled darlings that fond mothers turn out upon a world in which the one hope for a spoiled darling is to find a woman who will be willing to shoulder his responsibilities for life. There being many such women, those incompetents usually live the life of Riley. They are testy fellows and discriminating. Hard to please and critical. Their wives work eight hours a day to pay the rent for them, then return and prepare a meal which may or may not be eaten by the prize package for whom it was prepared. But next day there is another dinner just the same.

This sort of thing has been going on for quite a time. It goes back to when the first morbidly maternal woman turned out the first mamma's boy. The other men took one look and just laughed and laughed. But they laughed too soon. For immediately every woman in sight rushed to the defense of the shrinking violet and ordered those big burly brutes to get right away from the poor boy. Then they all gathered around and comforted the sweet thing. Pretty soon they had him feeling so sorry for himself that he even found that he could cry just like a girl. It was a big moment for everybody and a perfectly wonderful time was had by all. And it has been going on ever since.

Do you wonder?

Take your child and leave this spurious specimen of genius home. If women would read a little on the subject of human beings, what they are, and why some act so strangely, they would not marry and support and bear children to men who should really be supported by the state in some colony established for their special benefit. Be thankful rather than regretful that you have but one child instead of several and that that one by the grace of fate happens to be a girl. Let no morbid pity keep you with this parasite.

SECOND WEEK NEAR END IN ZAIN CONTEST

Deadline Is Moved to Noon Wednesday, Giving Two More Full Days.

Just two full days are left in which to write ads in the second lap of the Post-Zain Amateur Ad-Writing Contest.

The deadline has been moved up a few hours to Wednesday noon, so it is time to be mailing your entries if you expect to share in the $100 cash award and the 175 merchandise prizes to be distributed this week.

Make idle moments count, and jot down some of the many advertising ideas you are bound to have during the day. One of them should win for you.

We are anxious that you try just one, because we know that after you find how easy it is, how entertaining, and maybe profitable, you will stay with us until the close of the contest five weeks hence.

Prizes Each Week.

Prizes of the same value are awarded every week, $100 in cash and 175 merchandise prizes, five from each of the 35 cooperating advertisers. It is never too late to enter. If your ads are received after the Wednesday deadline, they will automatically be considered with the third week's ads. And at the close of the contest there will be a $1,000 grand cash award for the best amateur ad written in the entire contest.

Thursday a board of judges—a new group of judges, all professional advertising men, are appointed for each week of the contest—will meet and select this week's 176 winners. Remember, noon Wednesday is the deadline for this week.

Follow carefully the instructions given in the rules printed in another column in writing your ads. Place the name of the firm you are writing about in the upper left-hand corner of a piece of paper about twice the size of a postcard. Write your ad on the same sheet, and on the reverse side your name, address and telephone number. Write each ad on a separate sheet of paper. You can write as many as you like about as many firms as you like. And you can win as many prizes as you are able.

Ideas Are Given.

Had you thought about Emile, Inc., at 1221 Connecticut avenue northwest, as an ad subject? The House of Emile, we are told, is completely equipped, as is no other building in the world, for the enhancement and perpetuation of beauty.

The Deal Funeral Home, Inc., at 816 H street northwest, invites you to write an ad about its "Complete Funeral Service." The Deal Home has won the lasting friendship of many hundreds of Washington families visited by sorrow.

"We Move Anything" is the slogan of Merchants Transfer & Storage Co., and they live up to it. Their services include fireproof storage, moving, packing and shipping. For 30 years they have been in business here.

Try Ad on Sweets.

If you like sweets, if you like to eat them, think about them or write about them, you will want to try an amateur ad on Avignone Freres, at 1777 Columbia road and 5612 Connecticut avenue northwest.

And we shouldn't have to suggest an ad on the Earle Theater, at Thirteenth and E streets northwest. Warner Bros.' pictures are always popular in Washington, and the combined vaudeville and feature picture policy offered at this Warner Bros.' theater has met with marked success.

RULES FOR CONTEST

1—$10,000 in prizes to be distributed over seven weeks of amateur ad writing.

2—$1,000 in cash will be given for the best ad written by an amateur during the entire Post-Zain ad-writing campaign. To compete for this prize it will be necessary for contestants to write at least one ad about each of the 35 firms participating in the ad contest.

3—Grand weekly award of $100 will be given each week for the best ads during six periods of the ad-writing contest.

4—Five merchandise prizes for each of the 35 concerns will be given weekly during six weeks of the campaign.

5—Ads for the second week of the Post-Zain ad-writing campaign must be received prior to noon, Wednesday, April 22.

6—Ads submitted in competition for the grand award of $1,000 must be received prior to midnight, May 27.

7—Any one anywhere may compete for the prizes with the exception of newspaper employes and members of the advertising profession.

8—There are no obligations. No coupons to clip, no entrance fees to pay, no subscriptions to buy. One person may submit as many ads as he chooses. The more ads you write, the more prizes you may receive. The Post-Zain ad-writing contest may be entered at any time. Ads may be written about one or all concerns.

9—Write your ideas on one side only of a sheet of paper at least twice the size of a postcard. Place the name of the concern about which you are writing in the upper left-hand corner of the page. Place your own name and address, also telephone number, on the reverse of the advertisement and the envelope. Your contribution may be a slogan, a poem, a regular advertisement, a letter of testimonial, or an essay.

10—Winning advertisements will be selected by a committee of advertising experts. In the event of a tie, awards will be made to both.

11—All advertisements received become the property of the concerns about which they are written.

Ad-Writing Suggestions.

Prizes are given for ideas, not for grammar, spelling, punctuation, art work or layout.

Your ideas are likely to be new and original; your idea may win one or more prizes.

If you are not familiar with the advertisers about whom you are asked to write ads, study their service and merchandise; visit their shops, ask questions, and then jot down your ideas simply. Be brief and to the point.

If you can write a letter, you can write an ad. Get members of your family and your friends interested. Encourage them to write winning ads.

How to Win $100 Prize Weekly or $1,000 Big Award Told.

Arthur Godfrey, announcer for the Washington Gas Light Co.'s radio broadcast, gives a few useful tips to amateur ad writers in the Post-Zain Ad-Writing Contest, while Rudolf Schramm, conductor of the company's orchestra, tries his hand at ad writing.

Mr. Schramm and the Washington Gas Light Co. ensemble are heard every Thursday and Saturday nights at 6:15 o'clock over Station WRC. Thursday nights Mr. Godfrey makes the first announcement of the $100 cash prize winner in the Post-Zain contest. Saturday nights he broadcasts tips on how to win the $1,000 grand award, to be made at the close of the seven weeks' competition.

Conductor Schramm chose automatic gas heat to write about Saturday night, while Mr. Godfrey was broadcasting information on the contest. His ad follows:

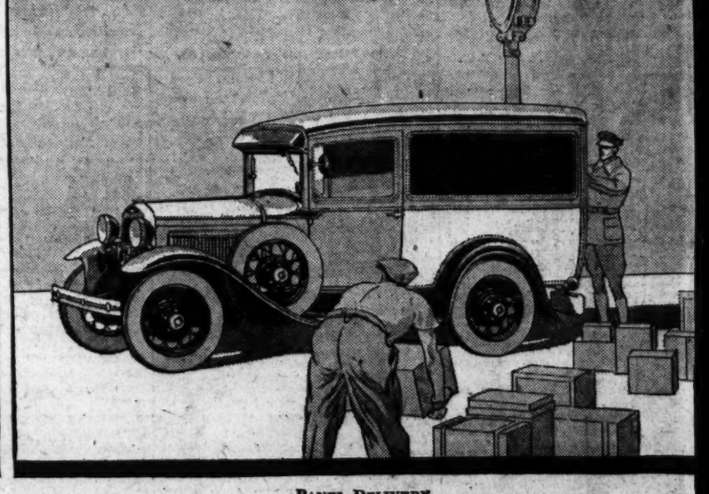
DE LUXE PANEL DELIVERY



PANEL DELIVERY

IT IS now possible for any operator to obtain a complete Ford commercial unit that is exactly suited to his requirements.

Illustrating, in some measure, the wide variety of bodies available on Ford chassis, are the four delivery types shown above. They are standard Ford units, and can be furnished in any color-combination desired. Each serves a definite field, emphasizing the wide range of choice that is offered by the Ford.

Other types on the light-delivery chassis include a drop-floor delivery and a pick-up body. The drop-floor body is used by cleaners and dyers, florists, radio dealers and others to whom the extra height of 12⅓ inches from floor to roof at the rear is of advantage.

Ford bodies are built to strictest standards of excellence. They are designed to meet the requirements of the work they are to do. Fine materials are used in the construction of these bodies, to make them strong and sturdy—able to give long service at low cost.

For heavy hauling there is a wide choice of standard bodies for the Ford 1½-ton truck. This chassis is available with 131½-inch or 157-inch wheelbase, single or dual rear wheels, open or closed cabs, and high or low rear-axle gear-ratios.

Your Ford dealer can supply a standard Ford unit that has been especially designed to meet the requirements of your business.

You may purchase a Ford truck or light commercial car on convenient, economical terms through the Authorized Ford Finance Plans of the Universal Credit Company.

Berg Opposes Canzoneri Friday

2 Ring Crowns May Be At Stake in Chicago Bout.

Championship Match National Feature for Week.

NEW YORK, April 19 (A.P.).—A double-barreled championship affair in Chicago involving Tony Canzoneri and Jack (Kid) Berg tops this week's fistic program beyond dispute.

They will battle ten rounds in the Chicago Stadium Friday night with Berg's junior welterweight championship at stake definitely and Tony's lightweight crown perhaps. The catch in lightweight titular aspect of the affair is that Berg must make 136 pounds, the class limit. There is no question that the busy British leather-swinger can make the required poundage, but whether he will remains to be seen.

The principal supporting bout of eight rounds will pit Steve Halaiko, former amateur flash from Auburn, N. Y., against Tony Herrera, El Paso lightweight.

Out on the Pacific Coast a somewhat lean week is topped by a ten-round bout between Tod Morgan, Los Angeles lightweight, and Cecil Payne, of Louisville, Ky., at Los Angeles Tuesday night. On the same night at Boston, Johnny Risko, india rubber man from Cleveland, battles King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight.

Bouts on the national schedule include:

MONDAY — At Detroit, Johnny Peters, England, vs. Vidal Gregorio, Spain, bantamweights, 10.

TUESDAY—At Boston, Johnny Risko, Cleveland, vs. King Levinsky, Chicago, heavyweights, 10; at Los Angeles, Tod Morgan, Los Angeles, vs. Cecil Payne, Louisville, Ky., lightweights, 10; at Oklahoma City, Paul Swiderski, Syracuse, N. Y., vs. Pietro Corri, New York, heavyweights, 10; at Indianapolis, Tracy Cox, Indianapolis, vs. Kid Woods, Indianapolis, featherweights, 10.

WEDNESDAY—At Cleveland, Bushy Graham, Utica, N. Y., vs. Johnny Datto, Cleveland, featherweights, 6; at Akron, Ohio, K. O. Christner, Akron, Ohio, vs. Frankie Wine, Montana, heavyweights, 10.

FRIDAY — At Chicago, Stadium, Tony Canzoneri, New York, vs. Jack (Kid) Berg, England, lightweights, 10; Steve Halaiko, Auburn, N. Y., vs. Tony Herrera, El Paso, Tex.; Roger Bernard, Detroit, vs. Harry Dublinsky, Chicago, and Ab Abels, Spain, vs. Ralph Lenny, Jersey City, all lightweights, each 8; at San Francisco, Tommy Cello, San Francisco, vs. Vito D'Punay, Manila, lightweights, 10.

Chisox Pound Browns' Pitchers to Win, 12-6

St. Louis, April 19 (A.P.).—The Chicago White Sox jumped on three St. Louis Brown pitchers today for 15 hits, including 6 doubles and 2 triples and won the opening game of the series, 12 to 6.

The game required 2 hours and 25 minutes playing time and in addition was held up 1 hour and 6 minutes in the second inning because of rain.

Of four pitchers sent to the mound for the Browns only Dick Coffman had any luck. He pitched the last inning and two-thirds without allowing a hit. Sam Gray, the first of the Brown pitchers, was charged with the defeat, the victory going to McKain, second on the mound for the visitors.

80,000 Watch Macks Beat Yanks, 3-2

2nd Largest Crowd in Game's History Witnesses Duel.

Walberg Wins Over Ruffing; Dykes Hits for Circuit.

NEW YORK, April 19 (A.P.).—Before a huge Sunday crowd, Rube Walberg bested Charley Ruffing in a pitching duel, to give the Philadelphia Athletics a 3-to-2 victory over the Yankees in their series opener today.

The second largest crowd in baseball history—80,403 persons—saw the game.

The all-time attendance record for baseball was set at the Stadium September 9, 1928, when 85,265 spectators looked on as the Yanks beat the Athletics in both ends of a double-header.

Walberg allowed six hits and Ruffing seven. A home run by Jimmy Dykes broke a 1to-1 tie in the seventh inning and Bishop's double and Haas' single in the eighth produced the run that won the game. Lou Gehrig hit his second homer of the year in the last half of the eighth with empty bases.

Tigers Stop Tribe, 7-2; Vosmik Slams Homer

Cleveland, April 19 (A.P.).—The Detroit Tigers outslugged the hard-hitting Cleveland Indians today for a 7-to-2 victory in the first game of the series.

Aside from the fourth inning, when Recruit Joe Vosmik slammed a home run with one on base, Earl Whitehill had the Indians in easy control. Stone made a circuit blow for Detroit, while his mates were also fattening the batting averages off three of four Cleveland pitchers. Wesley Ferrell, who won his first start of the season, was the losing pitcher.

Getting a single besides his homer in four times at bat, Vosmik saw his batting average sink to a mere .667. His twelve hits out of eighteen trips include a home run, triple, five doubles and five singles.

Stars to Clash Today In Handball Tourney

Three of the leading contenders for the singles championship will be seen in action today in the District of Columbia A.A.U. handball tournament at the Y.M.C.A., 1738 G. street, northwest.

Perrie McLean, Y.M.C.A. veteran and holder of the singles title of his organization, is matched against Sidney James, a club mate in a second round contest beginning at 5:30 o'clock. Jack Schwartz, of the Jewish Community Center, another outstanding performer, will tackle S. Goldberg, Y. M. C. A., starting at 5 o'clock.

In the only other match of the day, Aaron Schwartz, J.C.C. (no relation to Jack Schwartz), will oppose the youthful Roy Payne, Washington A. C. threat. This also is billed for 5 o'clock.

Tournament officials have not yet determined the opening date for the doubles competition, although it is certain that the latter will be conducted this week. It is hoped to conclude the entire affair by Saturday night.

43,000 WATCH CUBS BEAT CARDS

Root Hands St. Louis First 1931 Defeat; Score, 4 to 1.

CHICAGO, April 19 (A.P.).—Gabby Hartnett's double in the first inning that scored Cuyler and English was all that Charlie Root needed today to win his second game of the year as the Cubs defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 4 to 1. It was the first defeat of the season for the National League champions.

Root was wild at the start, but was helped by fine Cub fielding that cut two men down at the plate. After the third inning, the Cardinals got just two hits off the Cubs' ace. Meanwhile, the Bruins hit Rhem for two more runs and Kaufman finished the game. An overflow crowd of 43,000 attended.

Two in Row for Bucs As Reds Succumb, 5-1

Cincinnati, April 19 (A.P.).—The Pittsburgh Pirates made it two straight over the Cincinnati Reds today, combing Si Johnson for nine day, combing si Johnson for nine hits, to win, 5 to 1, and inflict the fifth straight defeat on the Reds, who have not won a game this season.

Although the Reds gathered eight hits and were given six walks by Kremer, poor base-running and lack of punch at the right time left them scoreless until the ninth inning.

Phils Win in 10th, 6-4; Fifth Defeat for Robins

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 19 (A.P.).—Harry McCurdy's pinch single in the tenth inning off Relief Pitcher Hollis Thurston, drove in two runs and gave the Phillies a 6 to 4 decision over the Brooklyn Robins today. Brooklyn, making its first home appearance of the season, suffered its fifth straight defeat.

Home runs by Herman and O'Doul gave the Robins an early lead which evaporated in the eighth when the Quakers scored four runs to knock out Clark and resume the lead. Slade's single drove in the tying run in the ninth but the Robins bowed to a tenth-inning rally which started after two were out.

Twenty-six thousand fans watched the game.

G.U. ACE RUNS HALF MILE IN 1:56

Jim Kelly Earns Anchor Berth on 2-Mile Relay.

JIM KELLY, slender Georgetown University runner, recalled days of old in Hilltop track history yesterday when he ran a practice half-mile in 1 minute, 56 seconds on the oval at Georgetown Prep School in week-end trials.

The time, while almost five full seconds slower than the world's record and almost four off the American standard, was the fastest made by a Georgetown half-miler since 1926. It is also thought to be the fastest recorded since that year by any collegiate half-miler in the Capital area.

Clinches Anchor Post On 2-Mile Team.

By virtue of this feat, Kelly clinched the anchor-man position on the Georgetown two-mile relay team that will compete next Saturday in the Penn Relays at Philadelphia. Coach O'Reilly, who held the watch during Kelly's effort, declared that Georgetown's chances of winning the race look bright.

Georgetown will be the only Capital college represented in the relays, which open on Friday. More than 3,000 athletes representing 500 institutions of learning throughout the country are slated to participate.

Besides a two-mile team, O'Reilly has groomed teams to compete in the quarter-mile, half-mile and one-mile varsity relays and the one-mile freshmen relay. Kelly will run on the varsity one-mile team as well as the two-mile.

Al Kelly, Georgetown's indoor 70-yard intercollegiate champion, is to run in the quarter-mile race, assigned to the first 110-yard leg. He was clocked in 9.8 seconds for 100 yards yesterday.

Maryland Not to Send Team to Meet.

In the individual events, O'Reilly has nominated Bill Siezak for the shot and discus, and Bernie Bonniewell for the high jump. Charles Coffman, a recent addition to the squad, may be entered in the discuss.

For the first time in several years, Maryland University will not send a team to the meet. The material at the College Park school is below standard this season. The fate of Catholic University's hopefuls will be decided in two or three days when Coach Griffith holds time trials.

Kaufman, King Tie In Woodmont Golf

In the golf sweepstakes at Woodmont Club yesterday there was a tie for first prize in Class A between Henry J. Kaufman, 89—21—68 and Philip King, 86—18—68. For the second prize there was a quadruple tie as follows: Albert E. Steinem, 89—18—71; Howard Nordlinger, 78—7—71; Dr. S. D. Gottlieb, 89—18—71 and Gustave Ring, 91—20—71.

In Class B, Joseph Mazo was the winner with 110—45—65, and there was a tie for second prize between John Shulman, 101—36—65, and Herb L. Glaser, 104—38—66.

Prelli, Ex-Notre Dame Player, Dies of Flu

Chicago, April 19 (A.P.)—Joe Prelli, Notre Dame football halfback in 1925, 1926 and 1927 and coach of Mt. Carmel High School here, died last night of influenza. Six members of his high school squad will act as pallbearers at the funeral tomorrow from St. Clara Church. He will be buried in Oakland Calif.

Hadley Rests Due to Sore Shoulder

Johnson Is Forced to Change Plans for Mound Selections.

Crowder Due to Face Red Sox Today in 2d Game.

PITCHER IRVING HADLEY, scheduled to pitch against the Red Sox this afternoon, has pulled up with a cold in his right shoulder and so will be excused, with "General" Alvin Crowder drawing the assignment. It is unfortunate that Hadley is held up in this manner, for he showed against the Athletics last Tuesday, when he held them to but four scattered hits, that he was in great form and appeared to be off on a successful season.

Hadley's trouble is not serious and Trainer Mike Martin believes that his baking treatments will have the Lynn big boy in shape within a day or so, but both Hadley and Manager Walter Johnson are slightly worried, nevertheless, and will breathe easier when the cold has gone and the wing is again working normally.

Manager John (Shano) Collins is expected to start Jack Russell on the hill for the Beaneaters.

Catcher Herold (Muddy) Ruel, who rendered valiant service to the Nationals for eight seasons, during which time he made hosts of admirers here, made his first appearance in Griffith Stadium in a Boston uniform yesterday.

The game was delayed four minutes in starting while Postmaster Bill Mooney, speaking for a large delegation of fans, presented the popular little catcher with a leather ensemble, consisting of a traveling bag, brief case and golf bag and clubs. The Washington players, not wanting to pass up an opportunity of showing their regard for Muddy, gave him a desk set, with Capt. Joe Jud

D. C. COLLEGE ATHLETES IN 17 EVENTS THIS WEEK

Nine Contests On Home Fields

Maryland - Virginia, G. U.-Saint Nines Play Tomorrow.

Card Calls for Meetings in Five Sports; Nine Net Bouts.

SPRING activity among Capital college athletes reaches the peak this week with a program calling for seventeen performances in five different branches of sport. Of the six institutions of the Capital area, all but Gallaudet are slated for competition. Nine of the events will be held on local grounds.

In the initial event of the card, Georgetown's tennis team engages Washington and Lee this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Columbia Country Club. Dooly Mitchell and Clyde Yeomans, Washington boys, are in the Hoya line-up, which is led by Gregory Mangin, sixth ranking player of the country.

Heading the program in point of appeal to students and plain fans are the baseball games to be played tomorrow between Maryland and Virginia at College Park and between Georgetown and Mount St. Mary's at Hilltop Field. Both should attract fair-sized crowds.

While these diamond clashes deserve the spotlight, much interest is felt in several quarters in a tennis match scheduled between Georgetown and Maryland on Thursday at College Park, and in the Penn relays, due Saturday, in which Georgetown will be represented. Other notable features of the card are the four tennis matches which George Washington will play in the South; the Maryland-V. P. I. baseball game on Saturday and the Maryland-Syracuse lacrosse tilt which will be played in Syracuse on Saturday.

Both Maryland and Virginia will be fighting for improvement of their berths in the Tri-State League standings when they cross bats tomorrow. Maryland thus far has dropped three games out of five played in the league, and in so doing has disappointed many of its adherents. There is a great deal of rivalry between the two institutions involved and a hard-fought game well may be anticipated.

G. U. Out to Trounce Saints.

In meeting Mount St. Mary's, Georgetown will face a team that always makes a supreme effort to win at its expense. The boys from the "Mount" delight in taking the measure of any team representing the Blue and Gray, but on most past occasions their desires have not been realized.

Mike Tracy and Joe Lynch, former Washington schoolboy players, will be seen in the Mount St. Mary's line-up. Last year Georgetown defeated the "Mount" aggregation by a score of 9 to 3.

Just what chances has Georgetown in the Penn relays is a doubtful question at this time, but it is believed that the Hilltop, with such stars as Al Kelly, sprinter, and the relay artists—Burke, Carlin, Jim Kelly and Mara—will make their presence felt.

In past years Georgetown has usually produced a winner or two in the Penn meet, which is the cofeature of the Eastern spring track season along with the intercollegiate championships. But last year the Blue and Gray failed signally when Karl Wildermuth, its best bet, injured his leg in the 100-yard dash.

No less than nine tennis matches are listed on the week's program, with the Georgetown-Maryland tiff at College Park headlining. This is one of the few intercity contests scheduled this year. Georgetown is the favorite.

George Washington's racqueters will invade the South, starting on Wednesday, when they will oppose William and Mary at Williamsburg, Va. Following on successive days, the Colonials will play Virginia at Charlottesville, Hampden-Sidney at Hampden-Sidney, Va., and Duke at Durham, N. C. American University is down for one tennis match, listed to oppose St. John's at Annapolis on Friday.

The busiest day of the week is Saturday, when six contests will be played. Maryland teams will appear in three of this number with the lacrossemen matched against Syrcuse in the most important.

William T. Picked to Win Feature at Graw Today

Same Stable May Put Mynheer Over in Secondary.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

HAVRE DE GRACE, April 19.—What promises to be the most successful meeting ever staged by the Harford Agricultural and Breeders Association enters the second and final week tomorow. Featuring the day's program will be the mile and 70 yards Mayflower Purse for 4-year-olds and upward. Six are entered in the race.

W. E. Caskey, jr.'s WILLIAM T. shapes up as the probable winner. Caskey's colors may also be carried to victory by MYNHEER, winner of the James Rowe Memorial at Bowie, in the Virginia Purse, which will follow the feature. Despite reports that WILLIAM T.'s underpinning isn't what it used to be, the gelding has only to repeat the race he ran back of Son Beau in the Bayview Purse last Wednesday to win the Mayflower. Sun Beau was an easy winner in fast time. WILLIAM T. was second. BLACK PATRICIA and ROCKET GLARE figure to finish in order named back of WILLIAM T. BLACK PATRICIA whipped ROCKET GLARE the last time they met at Bowie. SIR JAMES may be a post-time tip. This fellow has been working well, but he's in a tough spot, considering it will be his first start of the year.

FIRST RACE—TARQUIN and MAJOR GENERAL will be coupled in the betting, provided both start in the first race, a four and a half furlong dash for maiden 2-year-olds foaled in Maryland. Both TARQUIN and MAJOR GENERAL raced well at Bowie, in fact good enough that either can win the initial number. JAFFA was a strong tip his first and only out at Bowie. He finished far back, but may be capable of a better performance. LILLY BET, which will be making her first start, is a well bred miss and she is in good hands.

SECOND RACE—UNUSUAL is a fast filly from the gate. She is last on the also eligible list in the second race, a claimer at six furlings for 3-year-olds, but, should she get in, she may never be headed. ANCHOR LIGHT, another on the waiting list, dopes well on Bowie form. PEACH BASKET may earn first money in the event UNUSUAL and ANCHOR LIGHT are scratched. PRIMLIN, LAURA NEGLEY and LIGHT MINT are fancied in the order named.

THIRD RACE—Mediocre platers will dash six furlongs in the third. BLIMP has just about rounded to top form and he may be a hard horse to beat. BLIMP turned in a fair effort back of Hacky H., Supreme Sweet and Little Gyp last Thursday. HOLIDAY may be second. This fellow was far back of Scatter last Monday. BLIMP beat Scatter since that race. CHOLO BOY was an easy winner at Bowie, but he didn't beat the kind he meets this time. I'M A QUEEN is fresh and good.

FIFTH RACE—The fifth event has been labeled the Virginian. Three-year-olds will compete over the mile and 70 yard route. MYNHEER is in very well under 109 pounds. This is nine pounds less than he had up the day he won the James Rowe Memorial at Bowie and he meets about the same class of horses. ILIUM has improved since he was soundly beaten by MYNHEER at Bowie, but hardly enough to turn the tables on the Master Charlie colt. MY BROOM may hang on long enough to earn the short award. DAVIS has been training well, but he's a maiden and was far back his first out here.

SIXTH RACE—GILDED ARCH is the class of 3-year-old platers named to dash a mile and a sixteenth in the sixth. The question is, will he go a mile and a sixteenth? If properly handled, he may. DUNFERN will fancy the route. The latter has been to the post two times since the current meeting got under way. He should be ready for his best effort. TALENTED PRINCE is none too stout at heart, but he may outlast SAND BELL.

SEVENTH RACE—The nightcap will see a limited field of cheap platers in action over the mile and furlong route. SILVER SCEPTER is well placed in this event. His last Bowie race doesn't count, because the distance was but seven furlongs and he raced with better platers than he will encounter this time. MARYDALE, the tough luck horse, is the one we fear most. She has no early speed and usually takes all the worst of it coming around horses on the last turn. OTILLA is preferred over RED CLIFFE.

Varsity "G" Dinner Committee to Meet

Final arangements for the Georgetown University seventh annual varsity "G" dinner, to be held Wednesday night at the Mayflower Hotel, will be completed this evening at a meeting of the committee in charge at the University Club, beginning at 6:30 o'clock.

Hilltop athletic authorities report a great demand for tickets and that in all probability a sell-out will be experienced.

The dinner is the annual Georgetown function in honor of Blue and Gray athletes, past and present. More than 1,000 persons attended last year.

GOOD GAMES ON SCHOOL CARD

Eastern, Favored to Repeat, Plays Business Tomorrow.

THE first full week of the high school baseball series begins today with a raft of other games lending a background which in some instances promise to pilfer much of the spotlight. The ace feature of the week, however, remains in the series race and is made up of Eastern's initial appearance in the league, with Business as as opponent.

Had not Central given warning that it was a potent outfit this year, by trouncing Tech in the series opener last Friday, tomorrow's game between Eastern and Business might well be hailed beforehand as one of the best of the race. The clubs finished in one-two order last year and both have been blessed with an abundant return of seasoned material.

Just as Eastern was the favorite last year, and the year before, so is the latest edition of Charlie Guyon's handicraft looked upon as the likely winner of the series this year. In Business, Eastern will encounter a small and active covey of diamonders, but the Easterners are big and active, and a venerable fable tells us that a good big man can take the measure of a good little man.

Friday's series game brings Western in the race, with Central as the opposition. Coach Rauber is most likely to call on Emmett Buscher to hurl again, and Western will have to produce a brand of batting yet to be shown by them in order to rap out a delivery off Buscher's shoots. The big Centralite, who gained most of his reputation pitching for the D. C. Repair Shop team in the Departmental League last summer, did not throw one curve to Tech, and had the Maroon and Gray boys fanning left and right.

Most likely to steal a portion of the show Friday are Gonzaga and Georgetown Prep, who clash in their annual battle at Garrett Park.

Suburban Pin Stake Event Starts Tonight

With twelve Hyattsville bowling teams rolling the inaugural sets, the first annual Washington Suburban Duckpin Association of Maryland and Virginia tournament gets underway at 8 o'clock tonight on the Silver Spring, Md., drives.

Approximately 100 quints are entered in the big sweepstakes, according to Tom Walker, who is handling the details. From ten days to two weeks will be necessary to complete all of the matches. Tonight the teams will begin promptly at 8 o'clock, with the doubles following at 10 o'clock. The cream of the suburban bowlers have registered for participation in the tournament, and some good bowling should be in evidence. Tonight's schedule:

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Ray Sovinsky

GHOSTS

PRIMITIVE PEOPLE THOUGHT THAT DEPARTED SPIRITS CONTINUED TO LIVE, BUT IN A SHADOWY PLACE WHERE EXISTANCE WAS UNPLEASANT THEREFORE THEY WERE ENVIOUS OF THE BETTER LOT OF MANKIND AND WOULD HARM THEM IF POSSIBLE. HAD THE ANCIENTS TAKEN A DIFFERENT VIEWPOINT WE MIGHT NOW ENJOY THE THRILLS OF HAVING GHOSTS AROUND.

ANANIAS CLUB

DURING ONE OF HIS FAMOUS POLITICAL CAMPAIGNS, TEDDY ROOSEVELT APPLIED THIS EXPRESSION TO POLITICAL ADVERSARIES WHOSE VERACITY HE QUESTIONED. THE EXPRESSION STRUCK POPULAR FANCY AND WE STILL HEAR IT.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

NEW SLANT ON FINICKY EATERS.

If a child is a finicky eater the parent should not urge food on him, nor pick on him, and, above all, should not punish him or bribe him. One good plan is to set him at the table with several other children and let nature take its course.

Drs. Lucas and Pryor suggest another plan. Before the child is sent to the table with other children, as a school of instruction, they advise that the parents strip him to the buff and size him up. If they know how to do it they advise that he be measured. This means measuring the girth of the abdomen at three levels, that of the chest, the breadth of the shoulders, the length of the trunk and the legs.

The object of all this is to determine whether the child is of linear build or of a lateral build, or if he is in between. Many children are of the linear build, meaning that they are tall and narrow. Many others are of the lateral build, meaning that they are short and broad. Many conform to neither type.

The narrow children are not necessarily tall, though most of them are; and not all those of lateral build are short. The linears are apt to be long legged, with long chests. Their abdomens do not protrude. We say of their trunks that they are hour glass in shape, whereas the other group have trunks that are barrel shaped.

In judging by the shape of the abdomen we should not forget that the build of the back has much to do with the contour of the abdomen. A sway-backed child will have a protruding abdomen, regardless of his other architectural specifications.

What significance has all of this? What it means in the way of dieting a finicky child will be saved for tomorrow's story. What space is left in this story will be given to other meaning of body build. These tall, narrow children are apt to grow into adults with dropped stomach and other fallen, displaced organs. Fallen organs do very little harm, so far as actual disease is concerned, but they do much to take the joy out of life. Among them are most of the low blood pressure and such people have a multitude of symptoms. Here is the recruiting ground for neurasthenics. Many low blood pressure subjects digest starchy food poorly. There is a class of diseases to which they are quite subject. One is ulcer of the stomach.

They are self-centered and that frequently means that they are badly poised emotionally and may be unhappy at home and in society. Some of them develop dementia praecox.

TREATING A BUNION.

Miss A. D. writes: I had two bunions about three years ago and cured myself. I got them from small shoes.

To begin the cure, I bought a pair of shoes just a half-size longer and a half size wider. Then I bought a 25-cent roll of adhesive plaster, 1 inch wide, and bound it around the foot, covering the sore area twice. I left this on until it wore off and then replaced it with a new one. This I kept on for one year, and gradually the soreness left. Next the swelling disappeared and after that the bone finally went into shape. My feet are in perfect condition now and have been for a year and a half. In closing, let me tell you that mine were so severe I could hardly walk.

REPLY.

I am sure your method will cure some cases.

EITHER OR BOTH.

J. J. W. writes: I purchased a pair of glasses recently. The optician informed me thta I had astigmatism in the right eye. My eyes have been bloodshot for the last few days. Do you think this could be caused by the glasses or by a heavy cold?

REPLY.

Either or both.

Generals Drop, With North Carolina in Second Place.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 19 (A.P.).—Getting a belated start last week in Tri-State Intercollegiate Baseball League competition, Virginia Polytechnic Institute earned one victory and two ties to take a place on top of the heap.

Washington and Lee lost a game to University of North Carolina and dropped from first to third place, while the Tar Heels slipped into second position. Virginia lost a third successive game and was left in the cellar.

Three tied games were played during the week. North Carolina, playing V. M. I. in Lexington on Tuesday left with the score still deadlocked and on Friday North Carolina State entertained V. P. I. with a similar result. Saturday the Gobblers played their second tie game in as many days and gave the Tar Heels their second experience of this kind within a week when they stopped after ten innings of slugging at Chapel Hill.

V. P. I.'s claim to the league leadership will be challenged during the coming week by games with Washington and Lee, Virginia and Maryland, Washington and Lee and Virginia also will meet Maryland while V. M. I. will tackle North Carolina State and North Carolina.

made, the shortstopper getting a double and two singles in five trips to the tee, the real hitting hero was Catcher Roy Spencer, whose triple and single drove four mates over the counting block.

Herold (Muddy) Ruel, who was presented with a leather ensemble by Washington friends before the game, shared Red Sox batting honors with Rothrock, this pair being the only two aliens to get more than one safety. They cracked out two apiece, one of Rothrock's being good for an extra base. Fielding honors went to Outfielder Tommy Oliver, who opened the Nats' first by making a diving catch of a near-hit off Myer's bat.

Alexandria Sports

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., April 19.—The St. Mary's Celtics baseball tossers copped a double-header today from the Fort Humphreys All-Stars, 27 to 4 and 6 to 4. Only five innings were played in the nightcap.

A large crowd was present at Baggett's Stadium to witness the two tussles and fans were pleased with the showing the Corbettites presented. They drove four Humphreys hurlers to the showers.

As this game was practically an exhibition contest for the Alexandrians, the management of the club hopes to line up some real opposition for next week. Coach Art Ludlow used his entire squad in the games to get a line on the ability of some of the newcomers.

Trailing 5 to 2 in the eighth frame, the Del Rayans opened up with a slashing attack and drove six runs over the plate to net them an 8-to-5 victory over the Firefighter A. C. of Bethesda, Md., in the opening ball game, played on Edward Duncan Field before a fairly good-sized crowd.

Finney Gardiner, former George Mason High School hurler worked the nine innings for the Del Rayans and was touched for ten scattered hits. The Marylands bunched bingles in the third to tally thrice.

McCullough began the fireworks for the Redbirds in the eighth with a single. Two hits followed with a couple of charity tickets and the Redbirds had the ball game in the bag.

Watts, outfielder from Bridgewater, Va., crashed out three hits. The lone home run of the game was contributed by Beach in the second inning. It was a terrific shot to the driveway in right center.

Prisbie and Battle were the moundsmen for the invaders. They were pounded in the pinches. Next Sunday the Del Rayans will clash with another fast team from Maryland or Washington.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

PEDROA CANDIOTTI broke the world's record for both time and distance, when he swam from Goya to Santa Fe, Argentina, a distance of 240 miles. Candiotti, an amateur, started his long swim March 18, 1930, and was in the water 65 hours and 54 minutes. Candiotti recently attempted to swim from Santa Fe to Buenos Aires, a distance of 300 miles. He stayed in the water 71 hours and 55 minutes, breaking the world's endurance record, but he failed to beat his former mark of 240 miles, for he was forced to leave the water at the end of 225 miles.

Donkeys are outfitted with pants in Ecuador to protect them from the many gnats, biting flies and other bothersome insects that abound in that part of South America.

E. S. "Spud" Manning established a new record for delayed parachute jumping when he fell nearly three miles before pulling the rip cord on his 'chute. In performing his daring leap, he jumped from a plane at an altitude of 16,665 feet and pulled the release cord when but 1,400 feet from the ground. During the fall Manning was never in danger of losing consciousness, though he dropped through space at the remarkable speed of 118 miles per hour—the maximum speed possible in such a drop. The former record free fall was 9,600 feet, established by Rex Harker, in Cincinnati, a year and a half ago.

WEEK'S BOND PRICES MAKE FEW CHANGES

Australian Issues Fluctuate Some; Brazilians Steady After Short Weakness.

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—The bond market wavered back and forth last week and the net changes of domestic issues were narrow and without definite trend.

Individual issues experienced sharp fluctuations at times, however. Australian obligations dropped sharply on Friday and Saturday on the news of the withdrawal of credit by the Commonwealth Bank to the federal government and political upsets. The seriousness of the situation was emphasized by the bank's announcement that the government's overdraft at home and abroad amounted to $250,000,000. That institution performs many of the functions of a central bank.

Australian fiscal affairs have not been to the liking of international bankers for some time. From the standpoint of the bond market some basis of hope appeared on Wednesday in the announcement in London that the British Government had agreed to reduce the annual amount of interest due to it from the Australian Commonwealth by $8,000,000 and to extend by two years the period in which the principal would have to be paid. This development was a moderate boon, but the withdrawal of credit preceded a general decline so that this group closed lower for the week.

Cabinet Fall Hits Prices.

The resignation of the Argentine cabinet on Wednesday preceded severe declines in the bonds of that nation. One issue touched a new low and another equalled its old low. Net losses in eleven issues ranged then from 1¼ to 6½ points. Subsequent reports of more stable political conditions were followed by a general recovery, so that the net losses for the week were moderated.

Brazilian obligations weakened at times, but nothing tangible developed to depress them. Other foreign issues moved back and forth and closed with mixed changes.

Market conditions in domestic corporate bonds may be summarized by the average closing price of 30 representative bonds compiled by the Standard Statistics Co. which is 95.4, the equivalent of the 1931 low of 95.4 established on April 10. A large and diversified group of bonds is at or very near the year's low levels but it is equally true that the high prices of the relatively few bonds of really gilt edge standing reflects the demand for such issues and the easy money market.

Await Business Upturn.

Until the business outlook becomes clearer the bonds of more or less speculative rating may be expected to fluctuate. Railroad obligations have receded about this time of past months following publication of earnings reports for the preceding months.

Offerings of new issues the past week aggregated $32,401,733, the smallest total with two exceptions this year. The total for the previous week was $296,275,000 the largest weekly total since February, 1927. The sharp slump last week was not surprising. Such a large total of offerings in the previous week requires some time for distribution by dealers.

The offering of a large issue is followed often by a prompt announcement that it has all been "sold" or that the "subscription books have been closed." Such terms signify merely that the underwriting syndicate has sold all the bonds, the bulk of which are bought by dealers who in turn distribute them to the investing public. So long as the dealers have substantial commitments in the various new issues they are not disposed to buy more new bonds. Thus a period of curtailment is likely to follow large flotations.

SPRING LAXITY ADDS TO TRADE TROUBLES

Further Drop in Output of Steel Reported; Freight Handling Shrinks.

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—Spring fever is normally felt in business and trade at this time of the year, and would occasion little if any apprehension if it were not causing a further slackening in a pace already distressingly slow.

Reports of the past week include further slowing of activity in the steel industry, and shrinkage in freight movement and electric power production. Such developments are wearing to the nerves of executives fighting losing battles in their efforts to maintain dividends. Nevertheless, economists find it necessary to reiterate that these developments inject no new element in the situation which should impair confidence in the well-supported theory that depression has touched bottom.

Increasing discussion of wage scales has added a new element of uncertainty in the disjointed economic situation. Continued shrinkage of commodity prices and dividends appear to have weakened in spots the firm stand taken a year ago against wage reductions. The discussion of wages, David Friday, well-known economist, points out, has reached the point where light, rather than heat, is needed. Naturally there are all varieties of opinion as to whether a further downward adjustment of wages is necessary, and if so how much.

Effect on Wages

In any case, labor heads can point to the past half century of economic history, showing that wage reductions have nowhere near kept pace with declines in commodity prices, and in only two cases, in the 1874 and 1921 depressions, have reductions amounted to as much as 10 per cent.

In 1921, the general wage reductions was 11 per cent, while prices dropped 37 per cent. The aggregate price decline thus far has been less than 20 per cent. On the other hand, industrialists are not finding such ready-made bases of business recovery as they found in 1921, when there was an accumulated shortage of building to bring a boom to that industry.

Building statistics for the first half of April are not yet available, but there is an inclination to believe that the recent improvement has been continued, with public works projects helping to swell the volume. Building executives, however, are not looking for any sudden upturn to what this line of endeavor can regard as profitable levels. Real estate values have yet to stabilize.

Further Drop in Steel Output.

A further drop of 2 per cent in steel mill output to 51 per cent of capacity has banished hope that the 57 per cent level reached in late March was not the top for the first half year. As stocks of steel on hand are low, however, there is no expectation that the decline to midsummer will be anywhere near as drastic as that of December. Electric power output, for the week ended April 11, was off about 3 per cent from the like week of a year ago, and fell slightly below the level of the like week of 1929. For the first time in the past few weeks freight car loadings, as reported for the week ended April 4, were off about 11,000 cars from the preceding week. Much of the decline was in coal, and the Good Friday partial holiday may have been a factor. Retail trade has been stimulated by warm weather.

Most of the weekly commodity price compilations again showed an excess of declines. Wheat was buoyed up by reports of continued dry weather in the Northwest. Metal prices generally sagged. Copper was again sold at 9½ cents a pound, its twentieth century low. Crude oil in the east Texas field was offered as low as 15 cents a barrel, while $12 was about the bottom of the 1921 deflation. On the whole, however, the aggregate movement in commodity prices has narrowed of late.

SPEED CHASE NETS CORN WHISKY HAUL

A mile chase at 60 miles an hour over Washington boulevard ended yesterday afternoon when an alleged rumrunning automobile crashed against a telephone pole at Edmonson road and Jefferson avenue, near Hyattsville, wrecking the machine and leaving eleven cases of corn liquor to be confiscated by Chief of Police Richard Aldridge, of Riverdale.

Chief Aldridge believes the two men who were in the fleeing coupe were injured, and asked Washington police to search for them. The car bore District license plates issued, according to traffic records, to a man named Smith of P street northwest near Eleventh street.

The Riverdale official began the chase when he saw the car speeding down the boulevard, he says. He at first believed that he had a potential speeding case and gave chase.

The two cars rocketed along at a fast clip until the alleged rumrunners attempted to turn into Jefferson avenue. Their speed was too great to make the turn and the car crashed into a telegraph pole, he said.

The two men in the car leaped out and were picked up by a car which was following, according to Chief Aldridge. On searching the demolished coupe the official found eleven cases of whisky, he reported.

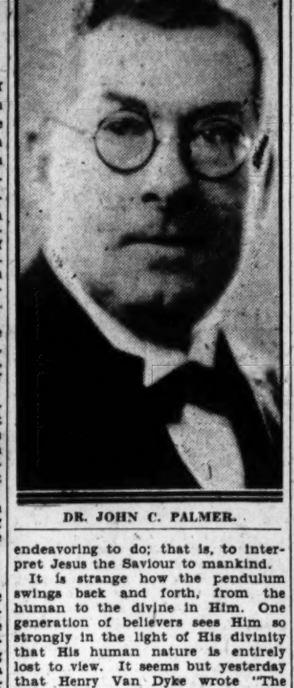
Influence of Christ Is Mightiest in Life

Dr. J. C. Palmer Speaks at Washington Heights Presbyterian Church.



DR. JOHN C. PALMER.

Dr. John C. Palmer, minister of Washington Heights Presbyterian Church, yesterday commemorated the fortieth anniversary of his ordination to the ministry by preaching a sermon on "The Transcendant Christ." During all this long and fruitful ministry Dr. Palmer has been absent from his pulpit not a single Sunday on account of illness or bodily affliction of any kind. He has served the Washington Heights congregation nineteen years, and no pastor in the city, perhaps, is more beloved of his people, or of the community at large.

Taking as his text John viii:23: "He said unto them, ye are from beneath, I am from above; ye are of this world, I am not of this world," the minister spoke in part as follows:

In every age some strange fascination has laid hold of earth's most gifted souls and enlisted them in an effort to present Jesus Christ afresh to their generation. Painters, sculptors, authors, preachers, all have felt the urge.

Thornwaldsen felt the spell and in time brought forth as the product of his chisel the familiar figure, "The White Christ."

Saviour Breathes in Marble.

If ever being breathed in marble form, the sublime Savior, so reverently portrayed, breathes in this. One replica of it was placed in the vestibule of a great hospital. Incoming and outgoing patients loved to rest a while before it, half expecting to hear the magic music of His promise, "I will give you rest."

In the half light of a noted college hall, the same figure in heroic size, appropriately stands, and the still lips seem to utter for all who enter, the familiar entreaty: "Learn of Me."

When Beecher sent forth his "Life of Jesus," he wrote these words in his preface: "My earnest prayer is that this work may carry to its readers a sympathetic insight into the heart of its great subject, Jesus, the world's Redeemer." When the great Jewish Christian scholar, Edersheim, sent forth his monumental work, "Jesus, the Messiah," he wrote: "A high authority has said that whoever thinks himself capable of writing the story of the Gospels, does not understand them. And in a sense, that is true. For the Gospels during these nineteen centuries have filled a place that nothing else can ever fill. But that does not exclude the attempt, such as mine has been, to present the substance of their story so as to set it into full relation to its own times as well as to our own."

Rubens' Painting Is Precious.

When the great Flemish artist, Rubens, had finished that gorgeous group of historical pictures which the Queen of France had commissioned him to paint (that group is one of the chiefest glories of the Louvre today), he went back to his native Antwerp determined to produce his masterpiece. You may see it today in the cathedral, "The Descent from the Cross." So precious is this painting, that it is kept carefully screened to protect it from light and dust; when at appointed hours the crowds gather to view it and the screen is withdrawn, so realistic is the suffering and the pleading look from those tender eyes, that instinctively the onlookers fall to their knees, as though He, Himself, were looking out from that bleeding, thorn-crowned figure, and His lips about to speak again, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do!"

Divine and Human Are Mixed.

Now, what Thorwalsden did with marble and Rubens with his brush on canvas; what Edersheim and Beecher and Geike and Farrar with their almost inspired pens, the living voice of the preacher is constantly endeavoring to do; that is, to interpret Jesus the Saviour to mankind.

It is strange how the pendulum swings back and forth, from the human to the divine in Him. One generation of believers sees Him so strongly in the light of His divinity that His human nature is entirely lost to view. It seems but yesterday that Henry Van Dyke wrote "The Gospel For an Age of Doubt." In telling of his purpose in writing the book, he said, "'I wanted to show that there is a message in religion especially fitted to meet the need of our times. There is an aspect of Christianity which comes to the world today as glad tidings. There is a newness to the old Gospel that shines out like a sunrise upon the darkness that shadows so much of modern life. This aspect centers about the human life of Jesus. This newness of the Gospel lies in regarding Him as a real man, in whose sonship the fatherhood of God is revealed and made certain to all men." You see, he diagnosed this age as doubting for lack of this companionable, understandable, reachable, human Christ.

Now we have had a period in which this gospel of the humanness of the Man of Nazareth has been attractively set forth. He is one who is tempted like as we are; with like passions; He can be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; He knew hunger, thirst, weariness, loneliness. But in our endeavor to make Him companionable, we have almost lost sight of the fact that He is all this and more than this! A human Jesus may be companionable, but He must be divine if He is to save a lost world of sinning men; if I am to have confidence that He speaks with authority on the things of this life and of that which lies beyond.

Trust Is Based on Perfection.

So I declare to you my trust in the Savior, not because of some proof text of the Scriptures; but because the Christ revealed there has a sinless perfection, a moral reach, a spiritual compass, an inexhaustible sufficiency of grace and comfort, a redeeming power, that meets every human need. His teaching goes into the deeps of our lives. He today exerts a mightier influence to uplift and bless mankind than any other force in life. In the great sweep of His loving purpose, in His response to every demand of the heart upon Him, I build my faith and rest in confident hope. Some things can be felt rather than proved by logic. The heart is ofttimes a surer guide than the brain. When I watch this Man of Galilee, as with unfaltering steps He moves through the Gospels, He commands my confidence, my loyalty, my devotion and my love.

GERMANS FEARING NATIONAL SUICIDE

Declining Birth Rate Seen by Housewives as Fatal to Country.

Berlin, April 19 (A.P.).—Increase the birth rate is the cry of leaders of the German Hausfrauenverband, or "Housewives' Association." They argue that the alternative means actual race suicide.

Unless every German family raises its present average of children from two to four, the nation will die out in 300 years, according to their reckonings. Four children to a family, they say, are absolutely necessary to maintain Germany's present level of population.

In 1929 only every seventeenth woman in Berlin, and every eleventh woman in the country became a mother, as against every third in 1900.

One of the results of diminishing birth, the housewives predict, will be a staggering increase of dependents over the age of 65. While today six aged persons fall burden to every hundred wage-earners, 1961 will see 21 dependents on the same number of providers.

That penetration into Germany of the rapidly multiplying Slavic peoples to the east will entirely supplant natives is also forecast.

As steps to check the birth rate decline, the association urges a program for the religious and moral regeneration of the nation, and municipal training courses for housewives tending to stimulate interest in domesticity.

March Trade Gain Shown in Industry

Increase in Production and Retail Buying Are Signs Noted.

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—Further signs of improvement were shown during March by business conditions, as reflected by indicators of the basic industries, the monthly report of the conference of statisticians in industry, released today, says.

Although gains registered in these industries were greater than is seasonally expected, the report says, "there is as yet little reason to believe that a continuation of the upturn from the present depressed level is assured," and adds that during the first half of April there were signs of downward tendencies.

Average daily production gains in the heavy industries were shown in March, as compared with February, and consequent increases were shown in consumption of materials used by them. Distribution of commodities by freight showed gains that were only slightly smaller than expected, and retail trade, as measured by value of transactions, gave some encouraging indication of increased buying.

Two Sisters Are Hurt When Auto Overturns

Two sisters were injured yesterday when the automobile in which they were passengers overturned after a collision at Eleventh and H streets northwest. They were taken to Emergency Hospital for treatment by George H. Eddleman, who happened to be near the scene.

At the hospital it was found that the girls, Dorothy Rest, 14 years of age, and Eleanor Rest, 15 years of age, of 4500 Canal road northwest, had suffered cuts about the legs. They went to their home after treatment. The automobile in which they were riding was operated by Milton C. Lowe, of Windfall, N. C., stationed at the Naval Air Station, according to police.

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—New municipal financing scheduled for award this week amounts to $19,074,284 and represents the needs of 53 communities, compared with actual offerings of $15,027,000 last week. The largest issue scheduled is $7,000,000 Allegheny County, Pa., 4½ per cent road, bridge and public building bonds, to be placed Thursday. On the same day Cambridge, Mass., will place an issue of $1,000,000. Wednesday Beaumont, Tex., will open bids for $1,100,000 street, sewer, water and dock bonds.

The New York City Bank stock market during the past week registered a further reaction, as indicated by the dollar-index figures compiled by Hoit, Rose and Troster. Based upon April 18 prices, sixteen leading bank and trust company shares were quoted at 18.3 times known earnings against 18.9 times at the close of the previous week. The yield now stands at 4.146 per cent, against 3.973 per cent a week ago.

The board of managers of the New York Cotton Exchange has voted that on the days of publication by the United States Government of cotton condition reports and crop estimates, trading shall cease five minutes before the time of publication and shall be resumed with a fall fifteen minutes after the publication of such reports. The only exception is that on such days as the publication coincides with the hour of closing the exchange, trading shall cease ten minutes before the regular closing hour.

Industry in the United States is currently operating above winter levels, Electrical World reports. March records of electricity consumed in 3,800 manufacturing establishments scattered throughout the country indicate gains in automobile manufacture, and in those industries contributnig largely to building construction—iron and steel, forest products, and the stone, clay and glass group. Approximately balancing these three were recessions, most of them slight, from the February level in other fields, so that the weighted average for all industrial activity changed but slightly.

Both the quality and the "productivity" of new security flotations in March continued at the high level set earlier in the quarter, an analysis by Moody's says. The survey states that for the first three months this year productive issues aggregated $843,000,000, or 77.6 per cent of all new offerings exclusive of refunding. For March alone the productive total was $444,000,000, or the highest in any month since 1920, with but three exceptions.

Newspapers Held Best 'Ad' Medium

Investment Company Credits Increase in Sales to Liberal Space Use.

Newspapers provide the best medium for financial advertising, according to announcement yesterday by the Administrative & Research Corporation, sponsors of Corporate Trust Shares, largest financial user of newspaper advertising.

"For some time past there have been persistent rumors in financial and advertising circles that this company would discontinue its newspaper advertising and adopt another form of publicity," declared its president, John Y. Robbins. "In order definitely to set at rest these rumors I should like to state that not only are we continuing our newspaper advertising, but as a result of a recent study of the advertising situation made by us, have decided to increase our present newspaper appropriation.

"Last year the sales of Corporate Trust Shares exceeded those of any investment trust, averaging more than 1,000,000 shares a month. In the first quarter of this year sales ran substantially ahead of the 1930 average. It has long been our conviction that the consistent use of space on our part in the financial pages of representative newspapers through the country has had much to do with this widespread distribution."

Business Recovery Check Is Reported

First Half of April Shows Signs of Downward Trade Tendency

New York, April 19 (A.P.).—Although business conditions during March showed signs of improvement, the National Industrial Conference Board reported today, the first half of April brought signs of downward tendencies.

While gains in some industries were greater than is seasonally expected, there is as yet little reason to believe that a continuation of the upturn from the present depressed level is assured," the board stated.

Wholesale prices were reported to have maintained the level attained in February, but fell off slightly during the first half of this month. A gain of 25 per cent over February's automobile passenger car and truck production was noted. A larger upturn was reported in building and engineering contracts, with an increase over February of 57 per cent.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ELMER TWITCHELL ANALYZES ALFONSO'S GOOD-BY.

DEAR ALFONSO:

I have been studying that manifesto of yours the day you left Spain, and while it is pretty good in parts it leaves me disappointed. Let me go over it, piecemeal:

Paragraph 1: "The election held on Sunday revealed clearly to me that I have lost the love of my people."

Now that, Alfonso, is perfect. Any newspaper editor would give you a job on the strength of it. You tell the story in the very first paragraph. All the essentiaf facts are there. It would have been a truly great composition if you had said no more.

• • • •

"My conscience tells me," you continue, "that this disaffection will not be permanent, because I have always served Spain. My only aim, even in the most critical circumstances, was public interest. A king can make mistakes, and, without doubt, I have erred sometimes, but I well know that our country has always shown itself generous toward unmalicious faults."

That has applesauce all over it, king. You are not being honest with yourself or your audience. Under your skin you have a pretty good hunch that the disaffection is for keeps. And that "because I have always served Spain" part is very weak, inasmuch as once the people throw a king out they dismiss his service as terrible anyhow, whether it was good, bad or indifferent.

• • • •

PARAGRAPH 2: "I am King of all the Spaniards and I am Spanish myself," &c.

Just chile con carne, my dear Alfonso, and you know it. If you are still King of all the Spaniards, Hal Chase is still playing first base for the Yankees, Easter Hero has just won the Grand National, Jack Dempsey is the retired undefeated heavyweight champion and Old Ironsides is still queen of the seas.

• • • •

Paragraph 3: "I renounce none of my rights because they are the deposit accumulated by history and I shall one day have to answer for their preservation."

You are still slicing it, Alfonso. That is just like an umpire being chased off the field but shouting through a knothole that he has not given up his authority because he still has a blue suit and the family traditions. You know very well you could renounce all those rights, if you felt like it, and that you are just clinging to a rain check in case they play the game over.

Paragraph 4: "I await the true expression of the collective opinion of the people, and, while waiting for the people to speak, I suspend the royal prerogative and take myself from Spain, knowing thus that she is the sole mistress of her destiny."

This doesn't square with your opening sentence where you said the people at the polls had revealed very clearly that they didn't like you any more. Are you asking for a recount?

• • • •

ANYHOW, Alfonso, I suppose the faults in the manifesto are excusable in view of the fact you were leaving in such a hurry, but these days, when the people oust a king, the situation calls for nothing more than a brief note along this line:

"Dear Subjects:

"I got your notice of dispossession okay and I hasten to comply. I left things around the palace in as good shape as I could under the circumstances. The key is under the clock. The queen says she left some cold meat in the ice box, and will you please give the cat some milk?

"I have no kick. Everything was pretty soft while it lasted, although I am not saying we won't miss the parades and salutes. Drop us a line some time."

• • • •

Well, I wish you and the family the best of luck and hope my few criticisms and suggestions will be taken in the right spirit.

Very sincerely,

ELMER TWITCHELL.

DIALOGUE OF APRIL.

What's the matter?

Oh, I'm all bruised up.

Subway riding?

No, I got into a trout stream on the opening day of the season.

"Twenty Millionth Ford Turned Out."—headline. Nonsense! A Ford never turned out for anybody, regardless of its number.

Modern substitute for "Hail to the King!"—"Scram, Excellency, Scram!"

THE engine on the train that took the royal family from Madrid was driven by the Duke of Saragossa. The duke, it seems, has run the royal locomotive for years. There's a man who must be the small boy's pet envy. Imagine growing up to be not only the driver of a locomotive but a duke to boot!
